AFRICAN AMERICAN ECONOMICS: REAL FACTS

Article courtesy of Black Enterprise Magazine, first posted on March 6, 2019

Black families are more confident about achieving the American Dream than the general population.

However, African Americans fall short on executing life-changing measures such as accumulating wealth, being better prepared for retirement and building up savings. Here are a few facts (and advice) about African American economics:

Some 84% believe the American Dream means financial security; 78% in not living paycheck-to-paycheck; and 77% in owning a home.

Still, based on a new State of the American Family Study by Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co. (MassMutual), many African Americans don't have tangible assets needed to make those goals happen now.

The study revealed a disconnect between African Americans' financial situations and their hope toward the future. The report disclosed some pitfalls tied to African Americans' personal finances including high debt, low savings and a lower likelihood of wide financial product ownership.

Kohl's Family Day and Kohl's Captivation Station Return to Summerfest 2019

Families save with free admission on Kohl's Family Day on Sunday, June 30

Summerfest, presented by American Family Insurance, is partnering with Kohl's (NYSE: KSS) for the ninth year to provide families with free admission to the festival during Kohl's Family Day and hands-on activities for children of all ages at the Kohl's Captivation Station throughout the 11-day festival.

In turn, the financial disparities and the wealth gap possibly explain why 31% surveyed are convinced the American Dream may be fading away.

Some key findings from the survey:

- Outside of retirement accounts, only 37% of African Americans own wealth-building products such as stocks and mutual funds.
- Only 35% believe they are doing a good job of preparing for retirement.
- 33% have less than one month of funds saved for a crisis and less than 25% have amassed more than six months' of emergency savings.
- 58% are actively involved in educating their children on finances versus 48% of Caucasians. Forty-percent rely on family members for information

"The study shows African Americans want to improve their financial situations and are hopeful about the future," said Evan Taylor, African American market director, MassMutual. "At the same time, it sheds light on the financial struggles and inequities that the African American community continues to battle. Those contradictions indicate a need for greater financial education and discipline for the whole family to achieve economic success. In fact, the biggest financial regret expressed by respondents was that they wished they had started saving and investing sooner."

The State of the American Family survey consisted of 3,235 total in-

As part of Kohl's Family Day, on Sunday, June 30, 2019 from 12 – 3 p.m., the first 2,500 festivalgoers who donate three nutritious non-perishable food items will receive one free admission ticket, valid for the day and time of the promotion only.

The Hunger Task Force will distribute the non-perishable food items to Milwaukee-area children, families and seniors. Suggested items include: canned chicken or tuna, fruits canned in 100% juice and low sodium vegetables.

"Kohl's is proud to continue our partnership with Summerfest to offer families free access to one of Milwaukee's most iconic festivals while at the same time helping to gather food items for Hunger Task Force," said Jen Johnson, Kohl's senior vice president, corporate communications.

"We are also excited to bring back the Kohl's Captivation Station which creates opportunities for families to participate in hands-on, educational activities together and enjoy engaging performances from some of Milwaukee's best-in-class organizations all festival long."

- The Kohl's Captivation Station, located on the south end of Henry Maier Festival Park, will be open from 12 – 7 p.m. every day of Summerfest. Attendees are invited to participate in a variety of free interactive activities, including:

- Kohl's Color Wheels, an art-making experience presented by the Milwaukee Art Museum

WHEDA Issues $165 Million in Single Family Bonding

MADISON –The Wisconsin Housing and Economic Development Authority (WHEDA) has issued $165 million of Home Ownership Revenue Bonds that will be used to fund WHEDA first-time home buyer mortgages.

Proceeds are expected to be spent before June 30, 2019, during the heart of the annual spring home buying season.

"I'm excited about the bonding because this provides funding for our first-time home buyer loans in addition to some down payment assistance," said WHEDA Chief Financial Officer Sherry Gerondale.

"The first-time home buyer represents about 65% of our volume, so the bonding will be a substantial benefit to our customers."

Millennials seeking to buy homes stand to benefit greatly from the Home Ownership Revenue Bonds. The millennial age group currently comprises 76% of WHEDA's first-time home buyer portfolio.

The bonds will carry WHEDA's general obligation. They are rated 'AA+' by Standard & Poor's and 'Aa2' by Moody's.

For over 45 years, WHEDA, as an independent state authority, has provided low-cost financing for housing and small business development in Wisconsin.

Since 1972, WHEDA has financed more than 73,000 rental units, helped more than 129,600 families purchase a home and made more than 29,000 small business and agricultural loan guarantees.

For more information on WHEDA programs, visit wheda.com or call 800-334-6873.

NEWS & NOTES ON WHAT EVERY FAMILY NEEDS TO KNOW

U.S. Senator Tammy Baldwin Helps Reintroduce Bipartisan, Bicameral Bill to Assist Family Caregivers

WASHINGTON, D.C. – U.S. Senator Tammy Baldwin today helped reintroduce bipartisan legislation, led by Senator Joni Ernst (R-IA), that supports family caregivers in Wisconsin and across the country.

“In so many instances, family caregivers put their financial security at risk to tend to the needs of their loved ones, many of whom require full-time assistance and care,” said Senator Baldwin. “This bipartisan reform will provide family caregivers some much-needed tax relief.”

“Iowa is home to over 300,000 family caregivers. Many of these individuals are juggling their own full-time or part-time employment while also selflessly caring for a loved one.

“Our bipartisan bill recognizes the additional financial responsibilities placed on our family caregivers and would provide an avenue of relief and support for these hardworking folks in Iowa and across the country,” said Senator Joni Ernst.

“Each year, Wisconsin’s 578,000 family caregivers provide about 538 million hours of care to their parents, spouses, partners, and other adult loved ones,” said AARP Wisconsin State Director Sam Wilson.

“In addition, family caregivers spent an average of $7,000 in 2016 on out-of-pocket costs related to caregiving.” Wilson went on to say that family caregivers “provide this care while also keeping up with their own jobs, running their own households and trying to make ends meet.

AARP supports the Credit for Caring Act to provide some much-needed financial relief to eligible family caregivers and looks forward to working with the bill’s sponsors and others to pass this important legislation.”

“AARP is pleased to endorse the Credit for Caring Act and appreciates the bipartisan leadership of the bill’s Senate and House sponsors to support family caregivers,” said Nancy LeaMond, AARP Chief Advocacy and Engagement Officer. “Nationwide, 40 million family caregivers are assisting loved ones so they can stay in their homes and communities.

In 2016, family caregivers spent an average of 20 percent of their income, or nearly $7,000, on care-related expenses.

The Credit for Caring Act would provide some much-needed financial relief to eligible family caregivers. We look forward to working with the bill’s sponsors and Congress to enact this important legislation.”

The Credit for Caring Act would provide working family caregivers with a nonrefundable tax credit up to $3,000 to assist with out-of-pocket expenses related to caregiving.

This tax credit for caregivers can be used toward expenses such as transportation, home modifications to accommodate a family member, medication management services, and training or education for the caregiver.

About the Credit for Caring Act:

- Creates up to a $3,000 nonrefundable tax credit adjusted to inflation for family caregivers.
- Applies to incurred family caregiving expenses greater than $2,000.
- Qualified care recipients must have been certified by a health care practitioner to be in need of long-term care for at least 180 consecutive days.
- Eligibility is limited to a caregiver of a qualified care recipient who must pay for caregiving expenses and has earned income in excess of $7,500.
- Credit is phased out when income exceeds $150,000 for joint filers or $75,000 for individual filers.

AFRICAN AMERICAN ECONOMICS

Interviews with Americans, including 482 African American respondents. The vast majority of these interviews (2,730) were conducted with men and women aged 25-64 with incomes equal to or greater than $50,000 and with dependents under age 26 for whom they are financially responsible. Respondents had to contribute at least 40% to decisions regarding financial matters in their household to qualify.

Shavon Roman, a financial adviser at Atlanta-based The Piedmont Group, shared how she overcame financial havoc.

Her journey included becoming an entrepreneur in real estate and franchising, where she ended up hundreds of thousands of dollars in debt. To rebound, she created a debt reduction strategy and lived below her means. The result: Within five years she was debt free. "You can accomplish anything with a plan," Roman says.

Her experience with financial challenges—and now on the path to wealth-building—led Roman to help others professionally.

Her clients at Piedmont mainly include women in their 30s and 40s, and pre-retirees working in corporate America. Piedmont is affiliated with Mass Mutual. She focuses on helping clients increase their net worth.

To help African Americans get on the right path to financial independence, Roman offers advice on the following:

• Financial education: It's imperative to have a savings and spending plan, allowing you to tell your money where to go and keep track of it. Consider working with banks that have online tools to monitor your spending and create budgets.

Also, know your credit score. Roman says a helpful tool to do that is the "Credit Karma" app. If buying a home is an objective, look for a prime rate loan with a nonprofit homeownership organization like the Neighborhood Assistance Corporation of America.

• Financial planning and execution: So what should African Americans do before investing in stocks or other asset classes like real estate or starting a new business? Roman's first suggestion is to do your research. She advises knowing your risk tolerance, asking yourself if you can stomach a financial setback.

Monitor the investment and its performance regularly. When it comes to achieving wealth-building goals, eliminate high-interest debt, reduce debt, and establish a savings fund.

• Professional help as opposed to taking a do-it-yourself approach with finances: Seek advice from a financial professional equipped to help you establish and reach your financial goals.

When looking for help with investment planning, retirement planning, or insurance purchases, partner with an expert. Check out their background, references, and make sure they are licensed in the state they work in. A financial professional can guide you to the right solutions to help achieve wealth-building goals.

"As minorities, we have the ability to improve our economic positions using ideas that may seem so small," Roman says. "My biggest lesson in life is that hope is not a plan. We have to put action with a plan and do the work. I did the work and I hope that my transparency inspires others."

MassMutual also offered some "NEXT STEPS" to help

black families secure their financial future:

• MAKE FINANCIAL PLANNING A FAMILY PRIORITY. Teach the next generation about finances. Involving your children in discussions of family budgeting and monthly bills can help them understand what is involved in managing money.

• PREPARE FOR THE UNEXPECTED. Protect your family with appropriate amounts of life insurance and disability income insurance. These precautions can provide a measure of security for your family should the unthinkable happen.

• PAY DOWN DEBT. It's a good idea to pay off the loans and credit cards with the highest interest rates first, then the smallest balances or the highest minimums. If you can make extra payments or pay more than the minimum, do so. This will reduce the total cost of the loan.

• ESTABLISH SAVINGS. Open a separate savings account designated for your emergency fund and add to it every paycheck. Use automatic deposit so you don't forget. As a rule of thumb, target 3 to 6 months of salary for your financial cushion.

• PLAN FOR YOUR CHILDREN'S EDUCATION. Create a plan for how you will pay for college. In addition to your income, there are opportunities to pay for college including 529 plans, Coverdell Education Savings Accounts, student loans, permanent life insurance loans, financial aid, grants, and work-study programs.

• SAVE FOR RETIREMENT. The amount of income needed to maintain a standard of living in retirement varies from person to person and family to family. Think about your current and future expenses to see if you are saving enough right now. If you're not, or if you're not sure, talk with a financial professional.
