Outreach Community Health Centers and Milwaukee County Behavioral Health Division expand behavioral health services on Milwaukee's north and east Side

Driven by a shared commitment to increase access to behavioral healthcare for people who are most vulnerable, Outreach Community Health Centers (OCHC) and the Milwaukee County Behavioral Health Division (BHD) are expanding behavioral healthcare services on Milwaukee's North and East Side.

These collaborative efforts will provide immediate access to behavioral healthcare, primary healthcare and other programs, including on-site pharmacy and dental care, peer support services and referral to appropriate outpatient clinics and other community programs.

"Through this agreement, we can offer much-needed coordinated behavioral healthcare service to our clients and to the communities we serve.

"We know behavioral health needs can be present with other health issues," said Connie Palmer, President and CEO for Outreach Community Health Centers.

Members of the BHD team will be present at Access Clinic East, located within Outreach Community Health Centers' clinic.

This partnership plays a key role in the County's larger redesign, focusing on expanded and enhanced access to community-based services.

community-based resources that are more accessible to those in need," said David Muhammad, Deputy Director, Milwaukee County Department of Health and Human Services.

"Opening Access Clinic East is another significant step toward increasing access to high quality prevention and early intervention services in partnership with our trusted community partners, and it supports our strategic goals of advancing racial equity and improving health outcomes for all Milwaukee County residents."

The new clinic will allow BHD's team to quickly connect people with the culturally competent care they need within their own community.

Services include psychiatric assessment, medication evaluation, peer support services, counseling and/or referrals to appropriate outpatient clinics, and access to additional community programs.

"Access Clinic East creates a mutually beneficial partnership that allows our team to quickly connect people with the care they need, right in their own community," said Ken Ginlack, BHD Director of Outpatient Treatment Programs.

"Like our other Access Clinic locations, we will provide a range of nonemergency services and ensure Milwaukee County residents are receiving the care they deserve.

"At a time when behavioral health and substance use resources have never been more dire, we're excited to be partnering with Outreach to open a clinic that serves residents on the north and east side of Milwaukee."

The program was launched at Outreach Community Health Centers at 210 West Capitol Drive earlier this month. The behavioral health clinic is located on the second floor and open Monday through Friday from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., with walk-in hours from 8:00 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Now is the Time to Address Menthol

By Lorraine Lathen
Director Wisconsin African American Tobacco Prevention Network and Wisconsin Tobacco Prevention and Poverty Network

Lorraine Lathen

Every other year, The Center for Black Health and Equity hosts the State of Black Health Conference, an event during which attendees examine the economic, institutional, and social inequalities that affect health. This year the event was held virtually due to the pandemic.

It was no surprise that COVID-19, the deadly virus that has impacted African Americans at an alarming rate and created countless hardships, took center stage.

But another issue rose to the top and was highlighted during a six-hour session dubbed the “Menthol Academy.”

Like COVID, menthol has wreaked havoc on Black health. But, unlike COVID-19, the novel coronavirus that last year reared its ugly head and just won’t go away, menthol has been harming our health for decades. And it won’t go away either.

Before we go into some of the reasons why it just hasn’t gone away, let’s talk about how menthol became the tobacco product of choice for African Americans (9 in 10 Black Wisconsinites who smoke use menthols). This isn’t a coincidence.

In fact, Black people, including youth, have been a sustained target of the tobacco industry for more than 60 years.

Tobacco companies have shamelessly used messages and images from Black culture to target urban, poor, African American communities. They even made donations to organizations serving people of color to gain favor within these communities.

Many can recall the “menthol wars” of the 1980s, when tobacco companies with brands like Newport, Salem, and Kool openly competed for market share in the Black community by offering free cigarette packs at high-traffic areas and popular street corners.

There is also a long-standing practice of flooding African American communities with menthol tobacco advertising, which increased tobacco use among low-income African Americans, according to the Center for Public Health and Tobacco Policy.

These well-documented and predatory practices have led directly to African Americans having higher smoking rates than the general population and suffering worse health outcomes related to smoking--despite starting at a later age and smoking fewer cigarettes on average than other adults.

Menthol masks the burning sensation of smoking by stimulating cool receptors in the nose and mouth, which allows people to inhale deeper. Menthol also triggers receptors in the brain, which makes it more addictive and harder to quit.

Forty-five thousand African Americans die each year from smoking related illnesses. The growing toll in human lives caused by tobacco, including menthol tobacco products, has prompted some action in recent years.

But, like many movements to address the inequities that hinder the health of people of color, progress has been slow and met with resistance at each step.

Some successes include a community-led movement in Minneapolis that led to restricting the sale of menthol products to tobacco shops and liquor stores.

More recently, California passed a law banning the sale of flavored tobacco, including menthol products. Unfortunately, that legislation is tied up in courts, a reminder of the power of the tobacco industry and its lobby.

What made the California legislation powerful is that it included menthol in a ban of flavored tobacco. While it may seem obvious that any ban on flavored tobacco should include menthol, a distinguishing and characterizing FLAVOR added to tobacco, it hasn’t been ap-

Which hand's holding the tobacco? Your kids can't tell, either.

Tobacco doesn't always look like a pack of menthols. Now nicotine comes in so many new shapes and styles, it can be hard to spot. Especially when it's wrapped in the bright colors and shiny materials you usually find in the candy aisle. So make sure your kids know: new products and fun packaging don't make tobacco safe or less addictive.

TOBACCO'S CHANGING, PARENTS. WE'VE GOT TO KEEP UP.

TOBACCO IS CHANGING.COM

Every child deserves a healthy start

Milwaukee County Healthy Start offers free support and resources to African American women and parents of infants up to 18 months

In Milwaukee County, 15 percent of black babies died before their first birthday compared to 9 percent of all babies. These statistics are alarming.

Every child deserves a healthy start in life, and Milwaukee County Healthy Start program is here to help. Healthy Start is a nationwide, federally funded program dedicated to reducing these health disparities in maternal and infant health.

Healthy Start works with African American women who are pregnant, thinking about becoming pregnant, or parenting along with their male partners/new dads and children up to 18 months old.

The Milwaukee County Healthy Start program is a partnership of many local agencies that each lend their unique expertise to supporting this population:

- All women and babies enrolled in Healthy Start have access to our partners, My NP Professional LLC for well woman and newborn medical care — free of charge.

- All fathers/male partners enrolled in Healthy

Start have access to fatherhood community outreach specialists who will work with them directly through the City of Milwaukee Health Department.

- All participants enrolled have access to health insurance through Children's Community Health Plan and childbirth education classes and baby 101 classes through Easter Seals.

- The Black Child Development Institute facilitates a community action network and some training.

- Genesis Consulting evaluates and shapes the work accomplished through Healthy Start.

- Children's Wisconsin administers the program.

How does it work?

Maternal child health navigators connect with participants to find out what support and resources are needed.

They can help obtain health insurance, find a primary care doctor or medical home, establish a reproductive health plan, make referrals for mental/behavioral health or substance use services, and connect clients with basic needs and parenting resources.

Healthy Start also has a mental health consultant available to join maternal child health navigators on home visits or conduct home visits with clients as needed. During the COVID-19 pandemic, Healthy Start navigators have continued to connect with participants remotely and through socially distanced visits.

Sign up today to get started.

Milwaukee County Healthy Start is here to help. Visit milwaukeehealthystart.org and fill out the simple sign-up form.

A maternal child health navigator will connect with you within 48 hours. Find Milwaukee County Healthy Start on Facebook @MilwaukeeHealthyStart. Call (414) 292-4243 or email healthystart@chw.org with questions.

Time to Address Menthol Cigarettes parent to all.

In fact, when the Food and Drug Administration excluded menthol when it banned characterizing flavors in all cigarettes in 2009.

History repeats itself

Fast forward 12 years, to a time when tobacco users who get COVID are at a higher risk for serious health complications, and when new movements to protect young people from flavored tobacco products, which are more appealing to youth, are gaining steam.

Once again, as was the case in 2009, menthol is being left off the table, on the shelf, and in the hands and mouths of African American adults and youth.

Many organizations have sought to raise awareness about the disproportionate impact of menthol tobacco, including national groups like the African American Tobacco Control Leadership Council, the Center for Black Health & Equity, the Truth Initiative, the Public Health Law Center, and Campaign for Tobacco Free Kids, as well as local groups like the Wisconsin African American Tobacco Prevention Network.

They are addressing menthol as exactly what it is: a social justice issue. It's not for lack of effort on the part of prevention partners that menthol continues to reduce the expectancy of Black lives.

Here in Milwaukee, the Wisconsin African American Tobacco Prevention Network as part of the Milwaukee Tobacco-Free Alliance is among several local groups mobilizing residents to join the chorus of calls for change.

They are working to increase access to services that help smokers quit and promote events like No Menthol Sunday, which is a national day of advocacy for the faith community to support those who have been impacted by tobacco.

Visit <https://www.dhs.wisconsin.gov/tobaccoischanging/menthol.htm> to learn more about menthol tobacco products or get connected with local prevention efforts, and if you or a family member is ready to quit, call 1-800-QUIT NOW.

If you are:

- Thinking about having a baby or are pregnant
- Caring for an infant or newborn
- A first-time dad or fathering a child younger than 18 months
- An individual or family feeling overwhelmed
- Just not sure where to find resources and support

Milwaukee County Releases House of Correction Vaccination Data

Milwaukee County leading the way in COVID-19 data transparency

Milwaukee County released COVID-19 vaccination rates for residents and staff at the Milwaukee County House of Correction as part of a dashboard that is now available to the public.

The dashboard shows the total number of vaccine doses allocated and administered, and a weekly snapshot of the vaccination rate for residents and staff of the House of Correction. Milwaukee County is among the first jurisdictions in Wisconsin to release comprehensive vaccination data for individuals in custody. “Milwaukee County is committed to data transparency and has been throughout the pandemic in order to maintain our focus on achieving health and racial equity,” said Milwaukee County Executive David Crowley. “Reporting on vaccination rates is one way we are holding ourselves accountable for instituting our top defense against the spread of the virus: vaccines.”

The House of Correction currently offers residents the option to receive either the Moderna or Johnson & Johnson vaccine. The Wisconsin Department of Health Services lifted the pause on the Johnson & Johnson vaccine this week, following a recommendation from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention to resume vaccinations. The House of Correction resumed offering and administering the Johnson & Johnson vaccine once the pause was lifted.

“Encouraging Milwaukee County House of Correction residents and employees to get vaccinated is important to further protect our staff and those in our care,” said Chantell Jewell, Milwaukee County Superintendent. “Because of space limitations, physical distancing and other safety precautions are not always possible at our facilities. Vaccination is the best way to protect our residents and staff, and move one step closer to reinstating the programs and recreational activities that advance the rehabilitation and wellbeing of our residents.”

Residents currently receive informational materials on the vaccine in written and video formats in both English and Spanish. Health center staff also answer questions and provide additional information so residents can make an informed decision.

Reporting and reviewing the vaccination data week by week will enable Milwaukee County to identify any areas of concern, such as hesitancy or supply, and allow officials to make informed decisions to adjust health education and outreach strategies as needed.

House of Correction staff are not required to get the vaccine, however, the CDC recommends everyone who is eligible to get vaccinated as a way to prevent the spread of COVID-19. Therefore, staff are encouraged to get vaccinated.

The House of Correction has administered 705 doses of the Moderna and Johnson & Johnson vaccine to date. Of the 831 people residing at the House of Correction on April 28, 2021, 181 of them had received a full vaccine series, yielding a 22 percent vaccination rate among residents in the facility. Of the 411 employees in the facility, 44 percent had received a full vaccine series to date, according to self-reported data.

The data on the dashboard will be updated every Wednesday. To find out more about the data being collected on vaccination rates for residents of the Milwaukee County House of Correction, please visit the Milwaukee County Individuals in County Care dashboard.
