MRS. O'BEE'S TOY HOUSE!

Northwest Funeral Chapel hosted its annual 'Mrs. O' Bee's Toy House' recently at the Northwest Family Activity and Events Center. ¶ This event was opened to children up to eight years of age accompanied by their parents/guardians. All were masked per CDC guidelines. ¶ Santa and his helpers were eager to greet every smiling child who chose a toy, a book and treats provided by the friends of Mrs. O' Bee. ¶ The late Mrs. Ernestine O' Bee was one of the founders of Northwest Funeral Chapel, where she graciously served Milwaukee families for over 50 years. ¶ Generous and a passionate advocate for children, the Mrs. O' Bee Toy House is an extension of the love Mrs. O' Bee had for all children, especially in our community. ¶ Mrs. O' Bee remains an iconic benefactor of the Dr. Terence N. Thomas Memorial Scholarship Fund, Inc. ¶ The Dr. Thomas Fund awards college scholarships annually to bright, community-oriented high school seniors and throughout their college careers. ¶ The TNT Fund has graduated elected officials doctors, lawyers, scientists, social workers, ministers, teachers, communicators and other professionals. ¶ The graduates continue to honor Mrs. O' Bee's generous legacy in their respective communities. —Photos by Yvonne Kemp

First Anti-Critical Race Theory Complaint in Tennessee Targets Martin Luther King, Jr.

By Lauren Victoria Burke, NNPA Newswire Contributor

A group called Moms for Liberty has filed an 11-page complaint alleging that the book "Martin Luther King Jr and the March on Washington" is "anti-American."

The complaint is the first to be filed under Tennessee's new anti-critical race theory law. The new law specifically targeted a book about Martin Luther King Jr. and the civil rights movement, calling it "anti-American."

The group Moms for Liberty is headquartered in Williamson County, TN. The complaint would forbid the book to be used by teachers at Williamson County Schools, a district south of Nashville.

The Tennessee Department of Education refused the request. The department declined to investigate the allegations because the lessons referenced were not taught during the 2020-21 academic school year.

"The relentless nature of how these divisive stories are taught, the lack of historical context and difference in perspective, and the manipulative pedagogy all work together to amplify and sow feelings of resentment, shame of one's skin color, and/or fear," the complaint from Moms for Liberty read.

Moms for Liberty protested a photo of segregated water fountains and images showing Black children being blasted with water by fire-

U.S. Senate Candidate Peter Peckarsky says he'll put Wisconsin first

By Thomas E. Mitchell, Jr.

With degrees and experience in law, political science and electrical engineering, Democratic U.S. Senate candidate Peter Peckarsky says he'll make sure scientific and technological advances benefit the community, and not just the wealthy and special interests.

"My education, training, and experience qualifies me to take (incumbent Republican) Sen. Ron Johnson's policies apart," Peckarsky said during a recent MCJ interview.

"I will represent all Wisconsinites on critical legal issues we face as a nation in areas such as (national) security and foreign affairs," said Peckarsky, who added Johnson ignores the issues facing the state in favor of conspiracy theories such as the January 6, 2021 attack on the Capitol.

Johnson has also voted against the Violence Against Women Act, gun control legislation, immigration reform, re-opening the government, and most recently against the Employee Non-Discrimination Act.

A new state-wide survey by Marquette University found Johnson's popularity ratings dip. Thirty-five percent of registered voters viewed him favorably, while 42% viewed him unfavorably (another 23% had no opinion).

That was down from his ratings last October when 38% viewed him favorably and 36% viewed him unfavorably.

Voters Peckarsky has talked to during his campaign so far are concerned about broad-band accessibility (“people don’t have broad-band” in many areas of the state—urban and rural), universal healthcare, systemic racism (the candidate noted a recent newspaper article reporting Wisconsin’s high incarceration rate among African Americans; and the 53206 zip code being the most incarcerated zip code in the nation).

Given that high incarceration rate, Peckarsky said he would sponsor legislation that would take marijuana off of the illegal substances list.

The candidate said he will make certain people in Wisconsin get to vote without questions, and their vote counted as cast. Peckarsky said it’s about defending the U.S. Constitution and making sure people are able to control their government “of, for, and by the people!”

Asked about the Senate ‘filibuster,’ which is a maneuver that delays action on a bill or other issue by talking. The popular image of a lone lawmaker mounting an impassioned hours-long argument belies the reality in today’s Senate, where a mere threat is enough to initiate a filibuster and hold up a bill.

A filibuster can only be stopped if a supermajority of 60 senators vote to end debate in a process called ‘cloture.’ But with just 50 senators, Democrats are currently unable to overcome filibusters unless at least 10 Republicans vote with them.

Peckarsky is of the same opinion of many Senate Democrats: scrap the filibuster! “Get rid of it so that (the Congress) can do the work of the American people.”

Peckarsky believes bills should go to the floor of the Senate and take their chances with a ‘YES’ or ‘NO’ vote. At the same time, lawmakers should be willing to say before the entire legislative body what they won’t and what they will vote for.

As for the ‘uncivil’ actions—in words and ‘imagined deeds’—of some extremist Republican senators (most of it racist in nature) towards a few of their Democratic peers, Peckarsky said such behavior is “out of line,” and can be dealt with using current senate rules of censure to control what senators do or say.

Peckarsky supports the John Lewis Voting Rights Advancement Act, proposed legislation that would restore and strengthen parts of the Voting Rights Act of 1965. Certain portions of the ‘65 Act was struck down several years ago by two U.S. Supreme Court decisions of Shelby County v. Holder and Brnovich v. Democratic National Committee.

If elected, Peckarsky said his first priority would be to focus on healthcare and its cost. He supports healthcare for all Americans regardless of income. “Universal healthcare is a basic right,” Peckarsky said. “We have to end systemic racism and economic inequality. Reversing the 2017 tax credit is a good start.

Peckarsky finds it ironic critics of President Joe Biden’s ‘Build Back Better’ domestic agenda bill call the initiative ‘socialism,’ yet ignore the fact the biggest U.S. system using public dollars for social good is the U.S. Department of Defense.

fighters during the civil rights movement. Though "critical race theory" is a part of college level curriculum at law schools, the term has become a wide-ranging catch all in conservative circles. Many have loosely defined to mean any curriculum that includes efforts towards greater diversity and equity as well as discussions about how exclusion and bigotry has played a role in the shaping of American history and present-day events. "Critical race theory" gained energy as an answer to the publication of the New York Times' 1619 Project by journalist Nicole Hannah Jones. That project greatly centered the history of African Americans and the impact of slavery in American history, politics and culture. On November 19 in New Hampshire, the New Hampshire Department of Education made it easier for citizens to help enforce a law passed during the summer that restricts how teachers can discuss race with an online questionnaire to prompt investigations. The state chapter of Moms for Liberty added a cash reward of $500 for those reporting violations. Lauren Victoria Burke is an independent journalist and the host of the podcast BURKEFILE. # Gov. Evers Submits New Redistricting Maps Using "Least Change" Approach Pursuant to Court Order

After Wisconsin Supreme Court rejects maps prepared by the nonpartisan redistricting commission, governor submits new maps to improve Republicans' current gerrymandered maps

MADISON — Gov. Tony Evers today submitted new redistricting maps to the Wisconsin Supreme Court to comply with the Court's order requiring parties to submit new maps that use the "least change" approach to redistricting. In an earlier filing to the Court, Gov. Evers, who continues to fight for nonpartisan redistricting, advocated for the Court to take up the maps prepared by the People's Maps Commission, the state's nonpartisan redistricting commission. On Nov. 30, 2021, the Court ordered that any proposed map submitted to it must be a "least change" map, a new concept never adopted before by a Wisconsin court. In so doing, the Court outright rejected the maps prepared by the People's Maps Commission, instead ordering parties to submit new maps that take a "least change" approach, making the minimum changes necessary from the state's current legislative and congressional district boundaries. Additionally, in taking a "least change" approach to the current maps, the Court also will not consider partisan makeup in drawing new district lines. The Court's order on Nov. 30, 2021, outright rejecting maps prepared by the nonpartisan redistricting commission, and its refusal to consider whether maps were gerrymandered, prohibited the governor from submitting the maps drawn by the People's Maps Commission and instead required the governor to draft and submit new maps to comply with the Court order. The maps submitted by the governor today meet or exceed requirements established by the Court.

The governor's maps submitted today comply with the Court's order for a "least change" map and make significant improvements compared to the maps enacted in 2011 and the maps passed by the Legislature in November, which were vetoed by Gov. Evers last month.

"I urged the Wisconsin Supreme Court to consider the maps prepared by a nonpartisan redistricting commission, and it's unfortunate the Wisconsin Supreme Court rejected those maps and decided they will only consider maps that make minimal changes from the gerrymandered maps we have now," said Gov. Evers. "The maps I'm submitting today are an improvement from the gerrymandered maps we have and the Republican maps I vetoed last month. But I want to be clear—the people of Wisconsin overwhelmingly support nonpartisan redistricting in this state, and I will continue to fight for a non-partisan redistricting process as long as I'm governor."

The governor's maps make fewer changes overall than the maps passed by the Legislature by only moving 14.21% of the population for the Assembly map (compared to the Legislature's 15.84% of the population), 7.83% for the population for the Senate map (similar to the Legislature's 7.79%), and only 5.50% of the population for the congressional map (compared to the Legislature's 6.52%). The governor's Assembly map doesn't make any changes to 13 Assembly districts while the Legislature's maps made changes to all 99 Assembly districts.

The governor's maps also fully comply with the federal Voting Rights Act by creating a seventh Black majority-minority Assembly district (compared to the current six districts) and maintaining the current map's two Black majority-minority Senate districts and two majority-Hispanic voting age population Assembly districts.

In addition, the governor's maps:

- Meet the U.S. Constitution's requirement for one-person-one-vote by having nearly perfect equality between the proposed congressional districts and a mean deviation of 0.47% for Assembly districts;
- Create more compact districts than the current maps;
- Split fewer counties than the current maps; and
- Contain only three incumbent pairings (two pairs in the Assembly, one pair in the Senate), in line with the Legislature's proposed three pairings.

While the Court stated that it would not consider whether a map was fair, the governor's maps are significantly less gerrymandered than the state's current maps and the maps proposed by the Legislature. The governor's maps have more competitive districts, with two competitive congressional districts, three Senate districts, and eight Assembly districts, which are all highly competitive. By contrast, the maps proposed by the Legislature have only one competitive congressional district, one competitive Senate district, and three competitive Assembly districts.

Applying an average of six statewide elections since 2016, the governor's maps would elect 44 Democrats and 55 Republicans to the Assembly, 13 Democrats and 20 Republicans to the Senate, and three Democrats and five Republicans to the Congress.

MKE FELLOWS SET TO HONOR BEN WILSON AND TASHIA MORGRIDGE

National HistoryMakers to be Expanded to Milwaukee Students, MATC to Host Annual Holiday Event

MATC will host the annual MKE Fellows Holiday Luncheon live and virtually on Friday, December 17, 2021, from their downtown campus location at 700 West State Street in Milwaukee from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The traditional holiday gathering will celebrate a remarkable year of response and achievement for the MKE Fellows and the Fellowship Open Golf Event and provide Wisconsin's business community an opportunity to engage personally and professionally with the MKE Fellows family of corporate supporters, friends, and special guests while many students are home on winter break.

In keeping with the spirit of the season and in execution of Civic Engagement – one of the five core pillars upon which the MKE Fellows initiative is based – the event will serve to recognize achievement and academic excellence and introduce the newest members of the 2026 MKE Fellows cohort.

Friends of the Fellows who have provided continuous, unwavering support through the global pandemic and international social and political challenges will also be on hand to commemorate the occasion.

There are several elements of particular significance at this year's annual gathering including acknowledgement of entrepreneurial and corporate achievement, outstanding community service, and academic excellence. Legal pioneer and corporate innovator Benjamin F. Wilson, and national educational and philanthropic leader Tashia Morgridge will be saluted for their commitment to community over many years of dedicated servant leadership. For the first time, MATC will provide the festive backdrop for the occasion, graciously serving as host for the matriculating and newly inducted MKE Fellows.

"It is nearly impossible to convey the tremendous influence and positive advancement Ben Wilson and Tashia Morgridge have enabled for the next generation of young leaders," said MKE Fellows Executive Director John W. Daniels III. "Through their examples as role models and their efforts as mentors, advisors, and supporters of diversity and inclusion, they have fostered evidence of a real change in thinking and have helped to launch the strategic deployment of dynamic plans to access future prosperity through equity. We salute them for their efforts and their impact on the enormous new challenges we face in communities of color nationally."
