

MILWAUKEE METRO SEES 9.3% INCREASE IN MEDIAN RENT

Amid a historic run of inflation over the last year, the cost of housing—especially rent—has been one of the most significant pressures on household finances.

Renters in many markets are seeing increases of 20% or more as they sign new leases, and with the nationwide rental vacancy rate at just 5.6%, renters have few alternatives to find more affordable options.

The current state of the rental market is a product of both supply and demand, with issues compiling over time and being exacerbated since the pandemic began.

On the supply side, the U.S. has an estimated shortage of nearly 4 million housing units.

Zoning and density restrictions have made it more difficult to add housing stock in many locations, both for rentals and in the real estate market.

With rising real estate prices, 70% of the growth of the rental market since 2009 has come from higher-income earners who might otherwise have bought a home.

And as more high earners enter or stay in the rental market, builders and developers are incentivized to provide more luxury units, which means less new stock to meet the needs of low- and middle-income earners.

The COVID-era economy has worsened all of these issues.

The spike in home values and now rising interest rates are putting homeownership further out of reach for many would-be buyers, keeping more people in the rental market. Builders and developers are also struggling to keep up with heightened demand while managing costs.

Ongoing supply chain challenges have made it more time-consuming and expensive to obtain building materials, while the tight labor market has left hundreds of thousands construction positions unfilled.

The last year has seen a dramatic spike in rental prices as a result of these factors, with a 17% year-over-year increase in rental costs from February 2021 to February 2022, according to data from Zillow. In comparison, the typical year-over-year increase has held steady between 3% and 5% for most of the last decade.

And recent increases stand in stark contrast to the first year of the pandemic, when increases fell to less than 1% as landlords and renters navigated the economic uncertainty of the pandemic, and federal and state governments implemented rental assistance programs and eviction moratoriums to stabilize the market.

No segment of the rental market has been spared the cost of rising rents, from singles or couples in a studio or one-bedroom unit to families renting a three- or four-bedroom home.

According to data from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, units of all sizes saw price increases of greater than 10% for the median unit between 2019 and 2022.

The impact of rental price increases has varied somewhat by geography. Many states in the southern and central U.S. have seen lower levels of increase, and one state—Alaska—has actually seen a 3% decrease in rental costs since 2019.

The locations that have seen the greatest rent increases are all found in the western U.S., led by Nevada (26.0%), Idaho (24.1%), and Utah (22.2%).

These states have experienced high population growth in recent years, bolstered in part by workers leaving higher-cost states like California and Washington in search of more affordable markets—but who have increased costs in their new locations in the process.

A similar pattern is apparent at the local level. The metros that have seen the fastest increases in rental

Roe v Wade, Voter Suppression, and “We” The Voters

By Dr. John E. Warren
Publisher, The San Diego Voice & Viewpoint

The current uproar over the leaked draft of the U.S. Supreme Court’s anticipated Decision on Abortion Rights is another example of the Republican Right Wing effort to eliminate democracy under the cover of the very Constitution which provides all our democratically protected rights.

We have seen the attack on Voting Rights by the actions of the Republicans in the U.S. Senate who refused to support not only the Voting Rights Act but also the John Lewis Act and the legislation coming out of the George Floyd murder.

These are the same Republicans who we now know plotted to overthrow the U.S. Government on January 6, 2021, with their efforts to stop the certification of President Joseph Biden as President of the United States.

These are the same Senators who prevented former President Obama from making a United States Supreme Court nomination while these same Republican Senators rushed through two conservative nominations who are now a part of the long-awaited overthrow of Roe v. Wade.

What we do know is that Primary Season is upon us and that we all have a chance to make some choices and changes if we look closely at who is running for what offices around this country and in our own backyard.

“We” the people, must not lose control of the U.S. House of Representatives, nor the U.S. Senate. The Senate hangs on “one” vote tied at 50/50 because of the two Independents that vote with the Democrats.

We now know that what we saw with Voter Suppression laws in over 22 States was just the beginning. Roe v. Wade is the second step in the attack on Civil Rights following Voter Suppression. Next, we are seeing references to changing such Constitutional rights as the Fourteenth Amendment’s Equal Protection and Due Process guarantees, as well as provisions of the Civil rights Act.

We should not get overwhelmed with the magnitude of the attacks but rather understand and remember that our votes represent the solutions to preserving our rights.

Congress, using the legislative process, has the ability to reverse and codify, if necessary, any Decisions that the United States Supreme Court makes.

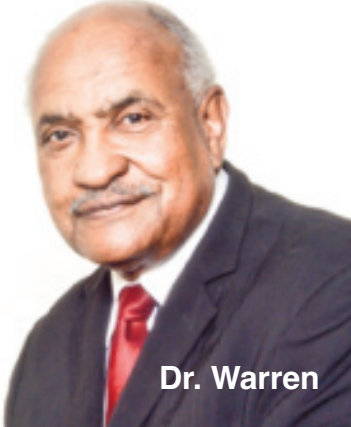

This is the strength of our separation of powers under the Constitution. But that can only happen if we have the votes in the House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate.

If we return to the idea of killing the “Filibuster Rule” in the Senate, making it no longer necessary to have 60 votes instead of 50 plus one, with the Vice President as the tiebreaker, then we could get about the business of governance.

President Biden did not fight hard enough to break the Filibuster and he knows better than most having spent 38 years in the U.S. Senate.

The Democrats in the Senate cannot be so afraid of losing control of the Senate in the next election, that they allow McConnell, the Senate Minority Leader, to continue to control the Senate because he controls the Filibuster.

“We” the people, must follow the example of the people of the State of Georgia and realize that “All Black Votes Matter” and must be voted and counted if we are to survive the lynching and extermination that a few have planned for so many of us. Where do you stand?

Dr. Warren

DNC Launches Ads on GOP Plan that Could Put Wisconsinites' Medicare and Social Security at Risk!

As new polling shows the GOP plan that could sunset Medicare and Social Security after 5 years is “universally unpopular,” the DNC is launching an ad buy in Wisconsin targeting seniors on Facebook to make sure they know that Republicans could put their hard-earned benefits at risk.

More than 1.1 million Wisconsin seniors depend on Medicare for their health coverage, and more than 1.25 million rely on their Social Security benefits for everything from groceries to rent – and without these programs they’d see their out-of-pocket costs on health care and daily expenses go up.

“Wisconsin seniors depend on the Medicare and Social Security benefits they’ve been paying into for decades to access life-saving care and afford Republicans have a plan that could raise taxes on half the country and sunset programs like Medicare and Social Security that millions of Americans rely on.

basic necessities – and Republicans are putting their right to these hard-earned benefits in jeopardy. Without these crucial programs, more than a million Wisconsinites could stand to face higher costs, and Democrats are committed to spending every day between now and November making sure that voters know it,” said DNC States Communications Director Brooke Goren.

While Republicans are threatening seniors’ hard earned benefits, President Biden and Democrats have proposed measures to bolster Social Security and responsibly reduce the deficit without touching Medicare or Social Security by making billionaires pay their fair share in taxes – while also lowering costs for working families.

Ad transcript:

VO1: Florida Republican Senator Rick Scott just released an 11-point plan to “rescue America.”

VO2: So that would raise taxes on half of Americans and potentially sunset programs like Medicare, Medicaid, and Social Security. Why would you propose something like that in an election year?

VO2: It's not a Democratic talking point, it's in the plan.

MKE Rent increase of 9.3%

costs are “second-tier cities” like Sacramento, Las Vegas, Phoenix, and Salt Lake City that have been booming with incoming residents seeking more affordable locations.

The data used in this analysis is from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and the U.S. Census Bureau. To determine the locations where rents have risen the most, researchers at Stessa calculated the percentage change in median rent from 2019 to 2022. In the event of a tie, the location with the higher total change in median rent from 2019 to 2022 was ranked higher.

The analysis found that median rent in the Milwaukee metro area is now $1,080, compared to $988 in 2019—an increase of 9.3%. Here is a summary of the data for the Milwaukee-Waukesha, WI metro area:

Percentage change in median rent (2019-2022): +9.3%

Total change in median rent (2019-2022): +$92

Median rent (2022): $1,080

Median rent (2019): $988

For reference, here are the statistics for the entire United States:

Percentage change in median rent (2019-2022): +12.5%

Total change in median rent (2019-2022): +$161

Median rent (2019): $1,284

Pet owners considering travelling abroad are being given expert tips to consider before taking their furry companions.

Pet owners considering travelling abroad are being given expert tips to consider before taking their furry companions.

The holiday car rental experts at StressFreeCarRental.com have put together some key considerations for owners to think about before taking pets on a trip.

Travelling can be unsettling for many animals and there are many things to think about before setting off.

Whether travelling by car, air, rail or sea, it's vital to check pets can be accommodated – where they can be kept is another fundamental thing to think about.

A spokesperson for StressFreeCarRental.com said: "There are many animals that can find travelling stressful but there are things to think about to ensure the process goes as smoothly as possible.

"The stress on families isn't something that is always considered. If you haven't done your research, and are not fully aware of the implications of travelling with pets it can be a nightmare.

"We've researched and compiled a list of the ten most important things you need to think about before travelling with animals."

Suitability of the breed

If you are thinking of flying, you may need to consider whether the animal you have will be okay being transported on a plane. Dog breeds like Lhasa Apsos, Pugs and Bull Terriers are not suitable to fly, particularly those with snubbed-noses as this makes them sensitive to air changes, the same goes for snubbed-nosed cats including Himalayan and Persian Cats. The best option for these breeds is to consider travelling an alternative way, such as the Eurostar or ferry.

Animal documentation

When travelling abroad, not only do you have to think about your own passports and visas, but your pet will also need one of their own too. Getting your pet passport and animal health certificate are essential things you need before you travel.

Vaccinations

Just like with humans, your pet will need to be up-to-date with all their essential vaccinations before travelling. Making sure they have their booster jabs if vet fees, there are other fees that will need to be taken into account when travelling with a pet. For example, if arrangements need to be made for someone to pick them up or the extra costs for flights and ferries. Transporting pets can be an expensive process.

Age of your pet

This is a big factor when it comes to travelling. Some older animals may find the experience stressful, whereas others may not be able to adjust to the climate of a new location so always keep the best interests of your pet in mind.

"Whether travelling by car, air, rail or sea, it's vital to check pets can be accommodated – where they can be kept is another fundamental thing to think about."

they need them and rabies vaccinations are essential. Do make sure you check with the country you're travelling to, to check what their policies are, because each one will be different.

Comfortable carriers

One of the most important parts of the travelling process is making sure your pet is comfortable which will make the transition as relaxing for them as possible. This means getting a comfortable carrier that is big enough or making sure the area they're travelling in is suitable for a long journey.

Cost

One of the big things to consider before you plan to travel is the cost. As well as

Some animals may get lost

Some animals may become disorientated by their surroundings and may lose their bearings in an unfamiliar environment.

Making sure they have a collar, are microchipped in case they go missing, or having a tracking device fitted so you can keep tabs on their whereabouts is a good idea.

Pet travel insurance

Just like humans, pets do also need travel insurance. This makes sure that the worst is covered, like if your pet gets lost, or an injury occurs.

New Report from ASPE Confirms Disproportionate Workforce Shortage Among Long Term Care Facilities

In case you missed it last week, the Assistant Secretary for Planning and Evaluation (ASPE), part of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS), released a new report that provided additional evidence that long term care facilities have been impacted by the workforce shortage to a larger degree than other sectors within the health care industry.

The report found that between December 2020 and December 2021, hospital employment declined by just 32,900 employees, while nursing and residential care facilities lost upwards of 145,000 workers.

The COVID-19 pandemic has fueled historic workforce shortages within the long term care industry. According to data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), the sector has lost more than 400,000 employees since February 2020.

The report from the ASPE touched on the growing crisis of caregiver exhaustion and mental health struggles amongst the entire healthcare industry, stating: “A survey conducted by the HHS Office of the Inspector General (OIG) in February 2021 found that increased work hours, in combination with the stress of the pandemic, had resulted in high levels of staff exhaustion as well as some reports of trauma and PTSD.”

These conditions, coupled with the inability of long term care providers to offer competitive wages and benefits due to chronic government underfunding, have led to far too many dedicated caregivers seeking work elsewhere. This has forced many facilities to limit admissions or in a growing number of cases, close their doors for good.

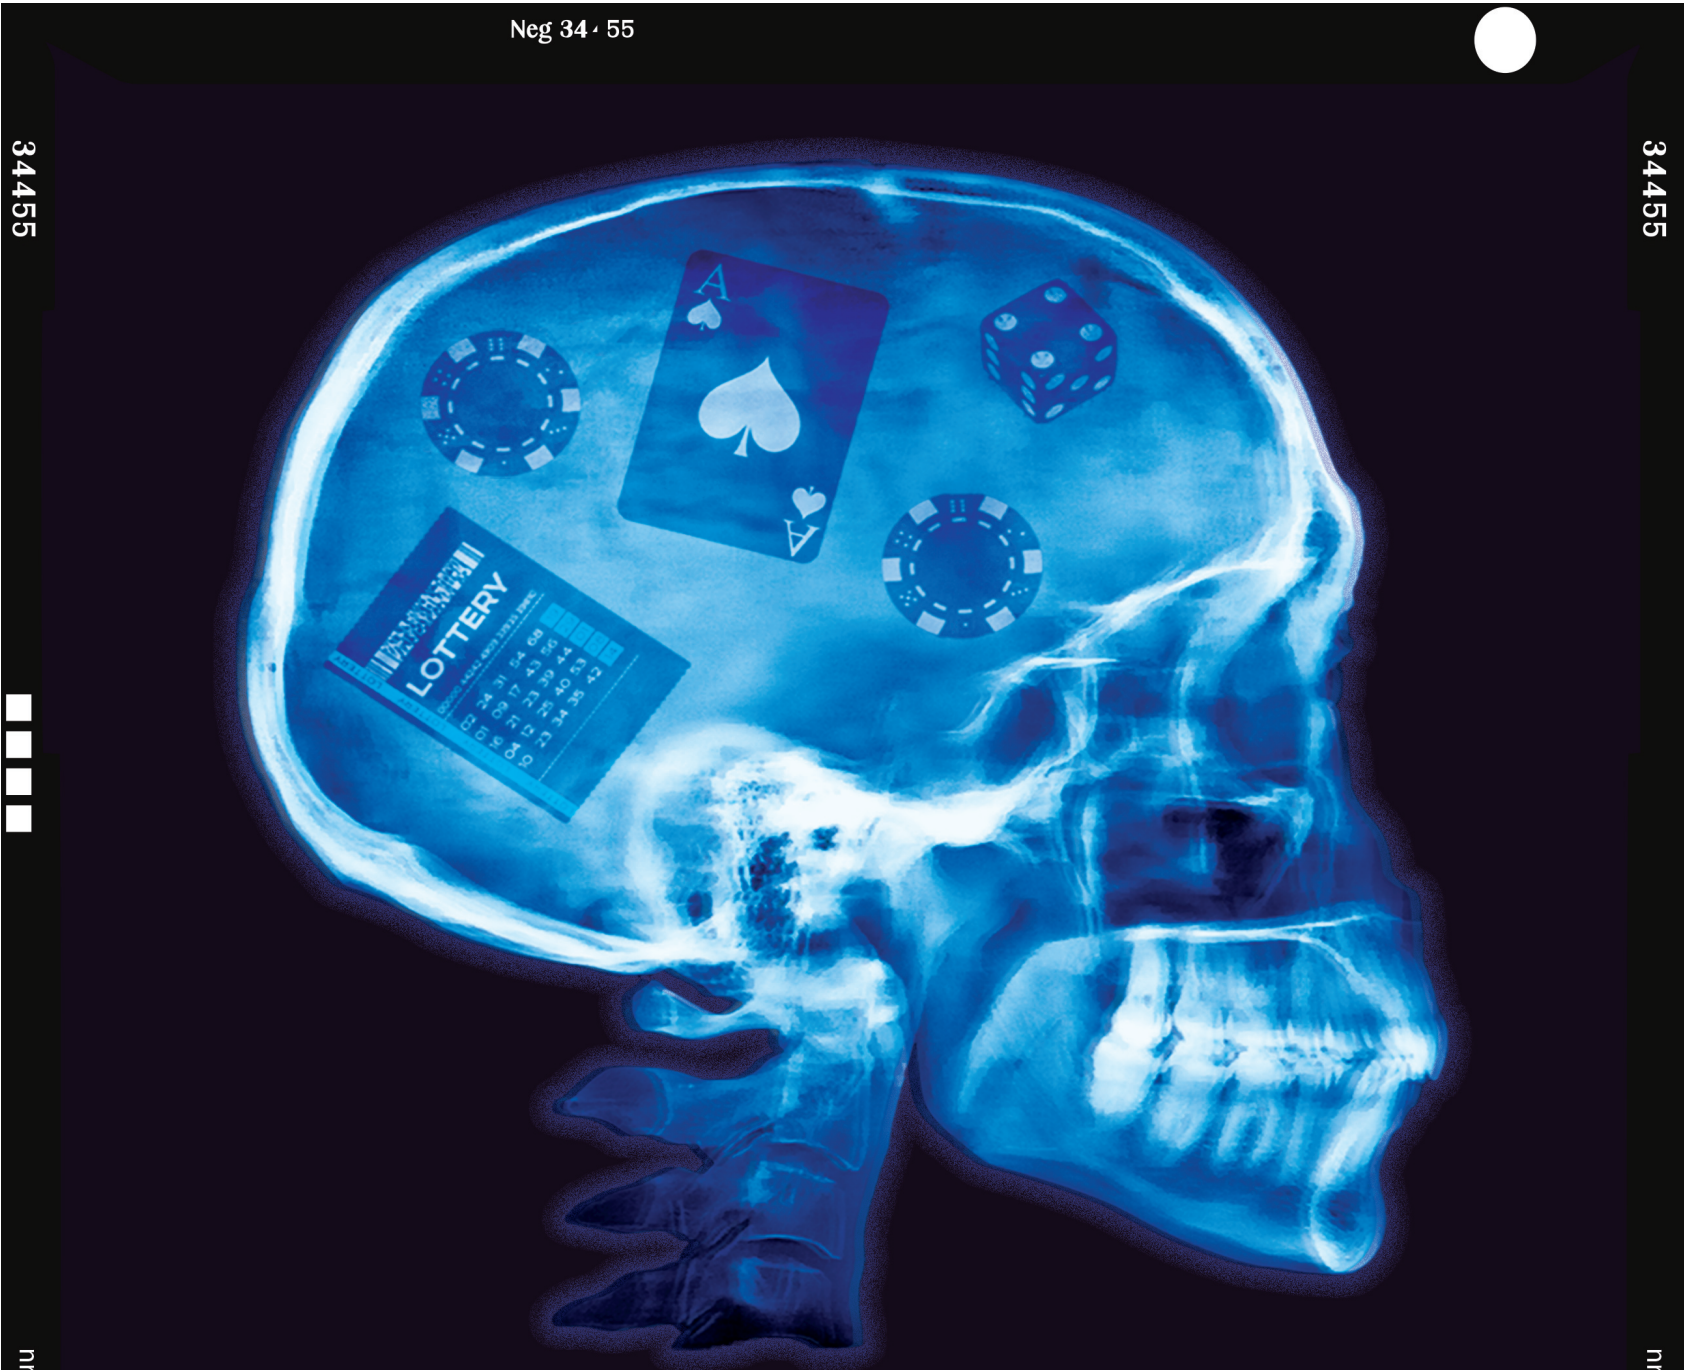

Facilities need more investments from lawmakers and public health officials in order to recruit and retain a sufficient workforce to fill these growing labor gaps.

As reported in Skilled Nursing News, the latest BLS report showed the health care industry added approximately 34,300 jobs in April, but only 900 of those were among the skilled nursing sector. In an article in Skilled Nursing News, the American Health Care Association and National Center for Assisted Living (AHCA/NCAL) said:

“Providers are doing everything they can to recruit and retain staff, but we need government support to go further faster. It’s time for policymakers to invest in our frontline heroes and develop policies that will help recruit and retain hundreds of thousands of long term caregivers.”

The ASPE report also cited a 2016 study that estimated a national shortage of registered nurses (RN) by more half a million by 2030.

While the skilled nursing industry supports reforms that would require having a RN on-staff 24 hours a day, increasing nursing home staffing requirements must be coupled with funding and policies that support tackling these national caregiver shortages. Facilities can’t hire more nurses if the nurses aren’t there.
