New Sneaker Giveaway!

Pastor Raymond C. Monk (standing in the rear, center) of Ephesians Missionary Baptist Church with kids holding their shoes.

With a new school year just around the corner, Alderwoman Milele Coggins and Ephesians Missionary Baptist Church recently hosted a back-to-school shoe giveaway at the church, located at 2412 N. 6th St. Students who attended the event were given a free pair of shoes to help them get ready for the upcoming school year.

The shoe give-a-way was open to school-aged children of all ages.

In addition to shoes, community partners, such as UW-Milwaukee, Marquette University's Upward Bound program, and the Social Development Commission, and Safe and Sound also participated, providing resources to students and families.

"It's important that children be set up for success and a new pair of shoes can go a long way," said Coggins.

Florida teaching students that slavery benefited Black people is another effort to cover up racism! By Donna Brazile OPINION: Painting a fairy tale version of America for students in public schools, as Florida is attempting to do, is not an act of patriotism. It is an act of child abuse.

Florida's new educational standards requiring public schools to teach students that slavery benefited some Black people are a disgusting and disgraceful effort to whitewash America's racist past.

The 216-page standards for social studies, adopted unanimously Wednesday by the Florida Board of Education, say students must be taught that "slaves developed skills which, in some instances, could be applied for their personal benefit."

The standards substitute vile propaganda for education and lies for the truth about an evil institution that had absolutely no redeeming value. None.

Vice President Kamala Harris, the first Black person to hold that office, traveled to Florida on Friday to attack the new standards. She said the standards "insult us in an attempt to gaslight us and we will not stand for it."

The vice president is right. The standards are a painful insult not just to millions of Black Ameri-

Autumn Mays is a 20-year-old rising senior at DePaul University.

Born and raised in Milwaukee, Autumn grew up with a deep love for the performing arts, especially music.

She began her own journey with music at the age of 8 with her participation in Milwaukee Youth Symphony Orchestra's (MYSO) "Progressions" Program. Spending 10 years in MYSO, she finished the program in their flagship orchestra "Senior Symphony". Throughout her tenure with MYSO, she was not only molded into a classically trained violinist but was also granted multiple opportunities to develop her musicianship and leadership skills.

These opportunities included performing alongside The Piano Guys, Black Violin, composing two orchestral compositions and co-creating the Milwaukee Youth Arts Center Student Advisory Board.

Because of these experiences, it further solidified Autumn's passion for the arts, but also made her further aware of the lack of accessibility for the arts in her community.

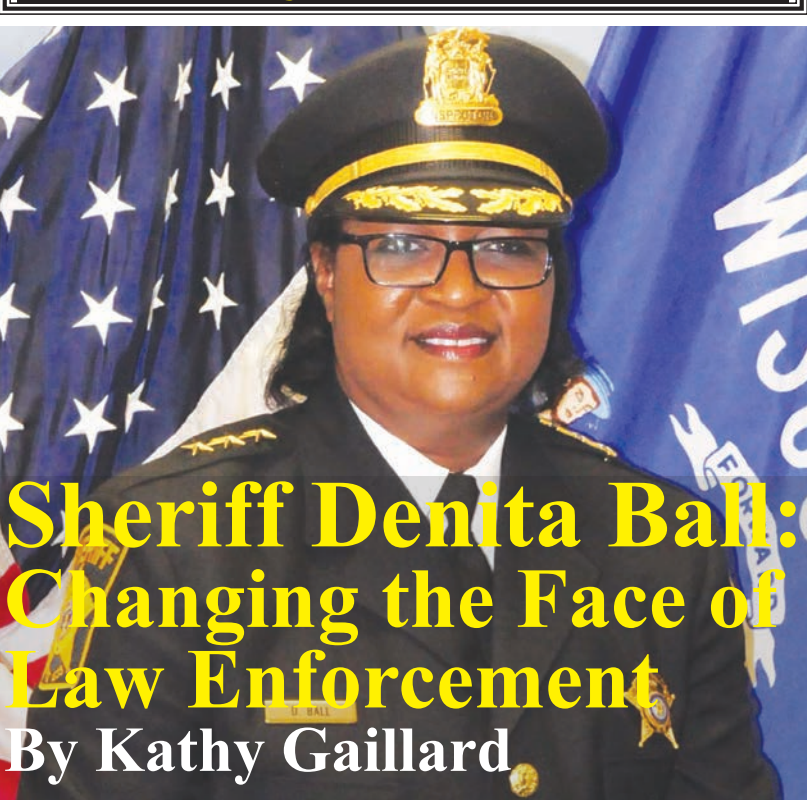

With a newfound motivation to combat the disparities of arts accessibility, Autumn set her sights on majoring in Performing Arts Management and double minoring in Communication Studies and Business Administration.

As a Performing Arts Management student, Autumn's coursework focuses on not-for-profit arts administration as well as commercial music management to prepare for the extensiveness of the perform-

Sheriff Denita Ball: Changing the Face of Law Enforcement

By Kathy Gaillard

Denita Ball is the first African American female to serve as Milwaukee County Sheriff and while she has earned a prestigious career in law enforcement, she veered away from the careers she initially considered.

"I wanted to become a scientist, but I did not want to take all the science courses required to become one.

"Then, growing up my brother kept getting into trouble with the law, so I thought I would help my mother with some of the legal fees he was accruing by becoming a lawyer and representing him," said Ball.

Born to a single mom in a small town in Arkansas, Sheriff Ball was raised by her grandmother from a young age, after her mother moved to Milwaukee.

Her grandmother stressed the importance of faith and education.

As a result, Denita's strong faith became a central point in her life and she became a lifelong learner.

"Even with her record of accomplishment and academic accolades, Sheriff Ball considers herself to be a public servant and is quick to praise her staff and the people she meets in the community."

When her grandmother tragically passed away, she was placed in foster care, eventually living in two different foster homes.

She remained focused on her education and graduated high school with honors.

She was then awarded an academie scholarship to the University of Arkansas where she excelled academically and received numerous awards and honors.

Sheriff Ball has steadily risen through the ranks of law enforcement and, along the way, continued her thirst for education by earning academic degrees that put her in a class all by herself.

With over 35 years of experience in law enforcement and criminal justice education, Dr. Ball is prepared to take the Milwaukee County Sheriff's office to the next level.

Even with her record of accomplishment and academic accolades, Sheriff Ball considers herself to be a public servant and is quick to praise her staff and the people she meets in the community.

"Meeting people and working with staff are the most fulfilling aspects of my job. There are so many people that care about this community.

"The people that I work with are doing a lot of great work behind the scenes that we don't hear or know about.

"I like the dedication and commitment to the community that I see on a daily basis," said Sheriff Ball.

The driving force behind Sheriff Ball's rise in rank has been her passion for improving the daily interactions people have with law enforcement.

She is also committed to ensuring that people, particularly those in crisis, are connected to resources that are available.

"One of the greatest challenges of this job is the county and state budgetary restraints. We could do so much more with more resources.

"For example, if we don't have the ability to make people feel safe, they don't go out into the community, use our parks and experience or take advantage of other community services.

Oftentimes I see people at their worst. I would like for us to be able to do more for them, especially when they are in crisis," said Sheriff Ball.

Acknowledging that the covid-19 pandemic created unique challenges, Sheriff Ball commends her staff for overcoming unprecedented challenges.

"We only housed individuals that had committed felony or serious misdemeanors during the pandemic.

"To minimize the spread of covid-19, we used videoconferencing with judges so that people could have their day in court, but because people started committing more crimes, we still ended up with a backlog.

Everyone had to look at different ways to do their daily tasks while, at the same time, think about themselves and their families," said Sheriff Ball.

On the heels of the pandemic, Sheriff Ball is hopeful for the future.

"If we come together and work together, we can have a better and greater impact than working in our individual silos.

"We must all be concerned about the community. We should want everyone not just to survive, but to thrive.

"If everyone is thriving, we will see a greater impact and a downward spiral in some areas where we have seen an increase (in crime).

"Some people don't value human life anymore and we must find ways to let them know that everyone is of value. We must look at some of those challenges and shore up resources so they can thrive.

"I am hopeful for the future and with us working together we can all have a positive impact," said Sheriff Ball.

Milwaukee is grateful to have a servant leader at the helm of the Milwaukee County Sheriff's office who is making a positive deposit into the community. She is a diamond.

ing arts industry.

With her minors in Communication Studies and Business Administration, she can further develop her communication and entrepreneurship skills to support her knowledge in the performing arts world.

To supplement her class and practicum work, Autumn is on the DePaul University School of Music Justice, Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion Board as the sole student board member to bridge the gap between student and faculty/staff communication and encourage improvements that can be made regarding diversity, equity and inclusion values at the School of Music.

Over the course of the summer, she has been interning with Elevated Chicago, a collaborative of residents, organizations, artists, city officials and philanthropists that work to promote equitable community and transit development.

As the Arts & Culture intern, Autumn is focused on creating arts and cultural strategies that embody Elevated Chicago's values, creating spaces for artists in the community and research to create arts resources in the city of Chicago.

In addition to her music and educational endeavors, Autumn's interest in philanthropy encouraged her to found her own not-for-profit organization NoteWorthy Inc. in 2020.

As the Founder/CEO, she strives to grant financial resources and musical opportunities to underrepresented youth in her community in hopes of fostering a new generation of performers that will break down stereotypes.

Furthermore, she was awarded the 2021 National Philanthropic Youth of Today Award for her work as the first vice-chair of the Milwaukee Youth Arts Center Student Advisory Board.

Autumn is grateful to be receiving the Dr. Terence Thomas Scholarship award for a fourth year as it has been essential to funding her academic career and goals. Currently, she is balancing being a full-time student, not-for-profit founder, musician, and model.

After finishing her bachelor's degree, she plans to either attend graduate school or directly work in both the not-for-profit and commercial sectors of the music industry with the ultimate goal of making music and the performing arts accessible to all.

New Overnight Respite Care Unit Opening
When family caregivers need time away, service keeps loved ones safe, happy Family caregivers have a valuable new support service available on the north side of Milwaukee -- St. Ann Center for Intergenerational Care will resume providing temporary overnight respite care at its Bucyrus Campus for frail elders, those with dementia or adults with other cognitive or physical disabilities.

The grand re-opening celebration will take place at 1 PM on Thursday, July 27, with ribbon-cutting, tours and light refreshments.

Caregivers who can't make that time, can visit all week between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. for individual tours and information.

This service, set to re-open in August, was available briefly previously at the Bucyrus Campus, 2450 W. North Ave., pre-pandemic, but closed during 2020 shutdown.

With demand on the rise, St. Ann Center is excited to again provide this specialty service for north side families, to allow caregivers peace of mind when they need to tend to their own needs -- a business trip, medical procedure, vacation, or simply time to refresh to avoid burning out.

"We'll take very good care of your loved one, so you can get a much-needed break from the physical and emotional demands of caregiving," said Sr. Edna Lonergan, founder and president of St. Ann Center.

St. Ann Center is primarily noted for day services, she said, but noted that the original Southside campus has operated a successful overnight respite program since 2007, when it began in response to caregiver requests for temporary night-time and weekend care to supplement the day program.

The Bucyrus unit features nine private bed-and-breakfast-style rooms decorated to feel cozy and home-like.

Milwaukee Public Schools is holding four job fairs — now through September — to fill positions including teacher, paraprofessional, children's health assistant, nurse, and food service worker.

The hiring events will be at MPS Central Services, 5225 W. Vliet Street, on these dates:

August 16
from 11 AM to 1 PM
September 20

from 5 to 7 PM

Jobs include entry-level openings that have pathways for advancement. Part-time and full-time jobs are available.

Some positions have summers off.

All full-time employees receive benefits that include health insurance, paid sick time, and a pension.

Many MPS openings are conveniently available in neighborhoods across the city.

The district has many opportunities for individuals looking for a career in education — as teachers, substitute teachers, and paraprofessionals, who aid teachers.

MPS also is seeking food service assistants and food service managers for the breakfast and lunch programs.

The district needs school nurses and children's health assistants; CHAs provide support to students with disabilities, including personal care and school-related activities.

The district has openings in building maintenance, school safety, and other departments, as well.

Attendees can learn more about the jobs and the benefits of working for MPS at the job fair, and, in some cases, take part in interviews at the hiring event.

Apply to open positions at mpsmke.com/careers.

Alderwoman Milele A. Coggs, whose District is home to Bronzeville and hosts the annual Bronzeville Week, is thrilled for this year's festival.

"The Bronzeville Cultural and Entertainment District has such a rich and diverse history of music and art that existed between the early 1900s and the 1960s.

The current iteration of Bronzeville has seen a renaissance in the arts and commerce, and this festival is one way in which we work to highlight and uplift the many local African American artists, entrepreneurs, and all those who contribute to the vibrancy of the area.

Mark your calendars now for what promises to be an exciting, dynamic day," she said.

The Arts & Cultural Festival will include a variety of vendors selling food, clothing, and various other products. In addition, there will be musical performances, live entertainment, a kids zone, and much more.

Vendors are still being accepted for the 2023 Bronzeville Cultural & Arts Festival.

Bronzeville Cultural & Arts Festival returns to celebrate music, art and more on Sunday, August 6

The Bronzeville Cultural & Arts Festival, a celebration of culture, family, and fun, is set to return in 2023 on Sunday, August 6.

The full day of events will take place from 10 a.m. — 6 p.m. on North Avenue between N. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Drive and 7th Street, and will help kick off the opening weekend of Bronzeville Week, which will run from August 5 — 12.

The Riverworks Development Corporation (RDC) is kicking off the fifth annual "Music on the Beerline," a free outdoor music event in Milwaukee.

RDC is continuing in its new format as a series versus a one-night event, an upgrade to the event structure that has proven to be successful.

The concert series set record attendance numbers in 2022, a feat that organizers hope to mirror in 2023.

"We're really happy to showcase local artists 5 years running at The Beerline Plaza for all connected to the trail to enjoy," Darryl Johnson, Executive Director of Riverworks Development Corporation.

The series, which highlights local musicians and performers, will showcase a diverse range of music, with prior concerts offering a mixture of Hip Hop, Soul, Jazz and more.

Last year featured hometown favorites like vocalist and guitarist, Roxie Beane and DJ Biz-zon.

The 5th annual "Music on the Beerline" will take place on the following dates on the Beerline trail: July 21, August 18, September 15

To learn more about each concert date, join us at Amorphic Beer, 3700 N. Fratney St., on June 30th and visit the Beerline Trail Events Page.

Teaching my ‘Fula Princess’ the difference between ‘need’ and ‘want’!

I was a microsecond short of catching my granddaughter's insertion of 50 cents into the 'animal rescue' donation box at the checkout line.

Before I could tell her to 'stop,' her coins rattled on the container's bottom.

My attempt to convey my concerns about her charitable contribution caught the clerk's attention. He gave me a curious look similar to my Fula Princess, who responded as if she had done something wrong.

To Princess Alaiah, I explained animal shelters should not be your priority when you have limited resources.

I like dogs too, sometimes better than people, I explained. But you can't weigh their welfare above people, particularly if you have limited funds to donate.

My point hit home a few minutes later when she discovered she was 15 cents short of the price of a pack of (sugar-free) gum she had planned to purchase.

To avoid paralleling her 'candy' purchase with a charitable contribution, I amended the lesson to explain that before making donations, she should consider her personal needs and wants.

My central message was about setting priorities. Needs should always overshadow wants, although many people need clarification.

You may want a new television, but you 'need' to pay your rent.

I recalled an acquaintance asking several friends for contributors to pay her rent because she had fallen for the appeal of her pastor to prioritize tithes and offerings above personal, 'selfish' commitments.

After a stern lecture, I gave her a few dollars and suggested she find another church.

A well-dressed minister who arrives at church in a nice new car and has the nerve to pimp the poor should be drummed out of the ministry. So should those 'pastorally poverty pimps' who tell their congregations to suffer on earth for they will receive their reward in heaven.

If you think about it, that's exactly what the vicious and inhumane slave owners told our African ancestors. But I digress.

Many of my charitable contributions have centered around personal tragedies and community interests.

Cancer stole away the lives of my mother and sister and redirected the energies of my younger sister and brother, so contributions to cancer research and supportive services have been a priority.

As a victim of heart disease—hypertension—I have invested in related educational programs and diabetes prevention.

I've also dedicated time and energy to various organ donation programs following the death of my son, Malik, whose organs helped others to live better lives.

I have given to several African charitable causes and local mentoring programs, which fill an essential void in our village.

And, of course, education has been at the top of my list. I've supported community schools tasked with turning our raw diamonds into gems with limited resources.

I also funded a Malik Holt scholarship at Messmer high school for students who planned to follow in his footsteps and become urban educators.

My most heartfelt contribution was to members of Malik's 5th-grade class at Young Leaders Academy.

Following his death in a car accident on his 27th birthday, I had the privilege of serving as a 'teacher's aide' in his classroom for the remainder of the school semester.

They became 'family' and named themselves the Kids of Kemet out of respect for Malik. Our familial relation morphed into a commitment to provide each of them with a $1,000 college scholarship when they graduated.

My wife and I drained our savings and earmarked proceeds from my book, Not Yet Free at Last, to bring that promise to fruition.

We also added a second-year contribution to the neediest.

Now that I'm more or less on a fixed income, I have eliminated most of my charitable donations.

But, it wasn't an issue of money when I dropped the Democratic Party from my revised donations list. It was more about how I saw the party: it was nothing more than the other wing on the political bird.

Several years ago, I wrote the DNC asking for specifics on how the party would benefit Black Milwaukeeans, only to be dissed and treated like a pawn for about slavery without upsetting anyone.

Who, other than a racist who believes Black people are subhuman, would not be upset to learn how enslaved Blacks were treated like farm animals, how human beings could be owned by other humans and considered property, how enslaved women were routinely raped by their owners, how enslaved children could be ripped from their weeping mothers' arms and sold, never to be seen again by their parents? How the enslaved could be murdered and no punishment be meted out to their murderers?

I understand that some issues involving Black Americans today can be debated. Does systemic racism still exist? Is race-based affirmative action good or bad? Are the descendants of enslaved people entitled to reparations?

But some things are so evil that they are beyond debate. Slavery is a prime example. So are Jim Crow laws that enforced racial segregation in the South, denied Black people voting rights and made us second-class citizens in our own country for 100 years after slavery ended following the Civil War.

It's frightening to think what educational standards DeSantis might try to impose on schools across the nation if he becomes president.

Might schools be required to teach students that enslaved Black people happily sang Negro spirituals as they joyfully picked cotton and learned how to farm, grateful for the free passage they received from what then-President Donald Trump in 2018 called “shithole countries” in Africa?

Yes, I know that sounds crazy. But what Florida has done already to distort education and lie to students is crazy.

DeSantis says he is waging war on wokeness. In fact, he is waging war on the truth.

America is a wonderful country. I love our nation dearly, as do millions of Black Americans. But we all have an obligation to teach young people the truth about our country — the good, the bad and the ugly.

Painting a fairy tale version of America for students in public schools, as Florida is attempting to do, is not an act of patriotism. It is an act of child abuse.

Donna Brazile is a veteran political strategist, Senior Advisor at Purple Strategies, New York Times bestselling author, Chair of the J. She previously served as interim Chair of the Democratic National Committee and of the DNC's Voting Rights Institute.

Before the Democratic convention three years ago, I sent a column to party officials asking if they would focus on any of the myriad issues impacting our city, only to be told we were essentially irrelevant.

I stopped giving to presidential elections after Barack Obama. Thus I threw into the ‘circular file’ (that’s trash can) a recent campaign contribution form from America’s first Black president (with his signature no less) seeking contributions for President Joe Biden.

If Black folks organized an independent political party, I might reconsider. However, if it disagreed with reparations, like Obama did, or opposed educational options, like the Democratic party does, they can redirect that request to Hunter Biden, the racist son of the president who has yet to be rebuked by Black Dems for calling us 'niggers' (n-word).

Likewise, I dropped the NAACP from my charitable list after the local branch coordinated a press conference to denounce my support (and the support of the MCJ) for school choice.

There was a time when I was a faithful member and even served as the chair of the nominating committee. But I soured on the organization when it was used by special interests to sue to stop school choice.

The NAACP's stance—at the time--reflected its status as a subsidiary of special interests that benefit from Black dysfunction and dependency.

The organization's opposition to educational options for Black children failed by government schools sharply contrasted with my personal cultural philosophy, as was illuminated when I asked the then-president of the local branch why the civil rights organization was suing to stop school choice.

His response still rings in my mind:

He said that the Black private schools—Harambee and Urban Day-- participating in the school choice program are exclusively “Afro American’ and thus segregated. "

And, he added, "Anything all Black is all bad." I'm not making that up.

After the shock wore off, I asked him if I should take my savings out of the Black bank, tell my children not to consider attending a Black college or university, and no longer purchase from Lena's grocery store?

My questions were met with silence.

My additional lesson to my Fulani Princess (DNA testing revealed our family is Fulani and Mende) was not to invest in ventures counter to our culture and sociopolitical self interests.

As of this year, I've been forced to reassess donations again.

I'm fine-tuning the organizational structure in order to create a new youth mentoring organizations premised on a proposal Malik developed before his death.

Out of respect for him and his students, it’s called ‘Kids of Kemet’ (KOK) and will take on the form of a quasi-Boy Scouts paradigm sans the camping and military components.

(For clarification, the original boy scouts was started in England by a bigoted British army officer ---Robert Baden-Powell--who used South Africa's Zulu tribe’s ‘rites of passage’ as his template.

Ironically, Baden-Powell kept a photo of a hanging of a Southern African 'rebel' as a permanent souvenir.)

The KOK will include cultural and educational components and martial arts training for discipline, sport, and self-defense.

Watch out for details in the coming weeks, as the first class will be formed within the next month.

And oh yes, in case you're wondering, I did give my Princess extra coins to purchase her gum—and a book.

I may not have agreed with her choice of charitable contributions, but the fact that she is cognizant of philanthropic needs makes her worthy of respect and reward.

Hotep.

Florida teaching students that slavery benefited Black people is another effort to cover up racism!

can. Florida has no right to require schools to put a pretty face on one of the ugliest episodes of our nation’s history.

And in yet another insult, the lying standards say that when students are taught about violent white racist attacks on Black Americans — such as the 1921 Tulsa Race Massacre, in which as many as 300 people (almost all of them Black) were killed — the lessons must focus on “acts of violence perpetrated against and by African Americans.”

By African Americans? This equates Black people defending themselves with the white racists attacking them. Outrageous!

What’s next? Requiring Florida schools to teach that Jewish people benefited from the Holocaust that murdered six million of them?

Teaching that Native Americans benefited from being killed by U.S. troops, having their land confiscated and being confined to reservations? Teaching about the supposed benefits of slavery is just as big of a lie.

Florida’s exercise in educational malpractice and the poisoning of young minds is an outgrowth of the Stop WOKE (Wrongs to Our Kids and Employees) Act signed into law by Republican Gov. Ron DeSantis, who is seeking his party’s presidential nomination.

The law makes it illegal to tell students and employees that anyone is oppressed or privileged because of the person’s race or skin color and bars any instruction that could make someone “feel guilt, anguish or any form of psychological distress” because of his or her race color, national origin or sex.

Denying that racism exists is absurd and won’t make it go away. And of course, we all know that no white person who enslaved Black people is still alive today.

No one believes the descendants of slaveholders are responsible for the sins of their ancestors.

But it is absolutely impossible to teach the truth

DALLAS, TX – Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc. General President Dr. Willis L. "Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc. has an unmatched legacy of social justice, advocacy, and leadership for the Black community," said General President Dr. Willis L. Lonzer, III. "In this environment of manufactured division and attacks on the Black community, Alpha Phi Alpha refuses to direct a projected $4.6 million convention economic impact to a place hostile to the communities we serve.

Vice President Kamala Harris addresses audience during signing of Till national monument proclamation honoring him and his mother Mamie Till-Mobley. With them is Rev. Wheeler Parker, a cousin of Till who witnessed his fateful kidnapping in Money, Mississippi on August 28, 1955.

Chair Steven Horsford, Minority Whip James Clyburn, and Mississippi Democratic Rep. Bennie Thompson.

The NNPA is the trade association that represents the Black Press of America.

Till, a 14-year-old Black teenager from Chicago, was tragically murdered in Money, Mississippi, on August 28, 1955, after being accused by a white woman of whistling at her. His brutal killing became a catalyst for the Civil Rights Movement when his mother, Mamie Till, chose to hold an open-casket funeral, and a photograph of her son's disfigured body was published in Black media, bringing national attention to the horrors of racism and sparking outrage across the nation.

The Roberts Temple Church of God in Christ in Chicago, where Till's funeral took place, Graball Landing in Mississippi, thought to be the site of his body's discovery, and the Tallahatchie County Second District Courthouse, where an all-white jury found the white men responsible for his murder not guilty, make up the 5.7 acres of the newly designated national monument.

During the ceremony, Biden acknowledged the significant role played by the Black Press in shedding light on Till's tragic story and the broader struggle for civil rights.

He applauded the bravery and unwavering dedication of publications like JET Magazine, the Chicago Defender, and other newspapers and radio announcers who fearlessly reported on the events surrounding Till's murder, ensuring that the truth reached the American people.

"The reason the world saw what Mrs. Till-Mobley saw was because of another hero in this story: the Black Press," Biden remarked, receiving applause from the audience.

He emphasized the importance of shining a light of truth on the painful aspects of the nation's past, acknowledging that darkness and denialism cannot erase history.

Vice President Kamala Harris, also present at the event, echoed Biden's sentiments and emphasized the critical role that the story of Till and the courage of Mamie Till played in fueling the civil rights movement.

She emphasized her connection to the cause because, while serving in the United States Senate, she sponsored the Emmett Till Antilynching Act, which President Biden later signed into law and made lynching a federal crime.

Harris emphasized that embracing the complete history of the United States, even its painful chapters, is essential to pursuing justice and equality.

"Till's brutal killing became a catalyst for the Civil Rights Movement when his mother, Mamie Till, chose to hold an open-casket funeral, and a photograph of her son's disfigured body was published in Black media, bringing national attention to the horrors of racism and sparking outrage across the nation."

She thanked the many leaders at the ceremony, acknowledging their contributions to progress in the civil rights fight.

"Our history as a nation is born of tragedy and triumph, of struggle and success. That is who we are," Harris asserted.

"And as people who love our country, as patriots, we know that we must remember and teach our full history, even when it is painful — especially when it is painful.

"Today, there are those in our nation who would prefer to erase or even rewrite the ugly parts of our past; those who attempt to teach that enslaved people benefitted from slavery; those who insult us in an attempt to gaslight us, who try to divide our nation with unnecessary debates."

She concluded:

"Let us not be seduced into believing that somehow, we will be better if we forget. We will be better if we remember. We will be stronger if we remember."

The Biden administration has taken strong action by designating the site as a national monument to ensure that future generations will remember and preserve the history of racial injustice.

The move comes at a time when some states are facing debates over how to teach their historical past in public schools, with Biden and Harris advocating for an inclusive and accurate education that confronts the darker chapters of American history.

The ceremony took place on what would have been Emmett Till's 82nd birthday, emphasizing the occasion's significance.

"There's really critical work ahead to continue the fight for racial justice and equality for all Americans," Biden insisted.

"And my administration is committed to leading a path forward.

"And I know the members of Congress here are even more committed than that."

A large gathering room with a fireplace holds comfortable furniture, a large flat-screen TV and multiple tables for games, puzzles or other activities. Freshly cooked meals will be served in the dining room. Guests can also enjoy a whirlpool bath, with bathing assistance. Hallway walls showcase original artworks by Milwaukee High School of the Arts students.

Overnight respite care is available not just to St. Ann Center's day program clients, but also to community members, who may join the Monday-Friday day program activities downstairs if they choose.

"Many caregivers are unaware this kind of respite care exists, let alone in their own neighborhood," Lonergan said. "We want them to know St. Ann Center is here for them, that we understand the demands placed on them, and that we'll treat their loved ones with empathy and kindness."

The cost will vary, depending on the level of care needed. St. Ann Center accepts private pay and payment assistance from Family Care, Community Care, Care Wisconsin, IRIS, Department on Aging and more. There is no minimum stay required; a caregiver may need only a weekend morning or afternoon of care.

Sr. Immaculate Matini, a registered nurse who has been working in the Stein Campus respite program for the past year, will direct the Bucyrus Campus program.

Caregivers should be aware that to arrange a stay, they must first enroll their loved one in the overnight respite program, a process that requires a physician's clearance and other preparation.

For more information about the program or how caregivers can apply for overnight respite care for their loved one, please call (414) 210-2408, or email Sr. Immaculate at matini@stann-center.org.
