Black Americans to stand with him in 2024

President Joe Biden showed recently that he is committed to improving the lives of Black Americans, delivering a fiery denunciation of White supremacy and highlighting his record of accomplishments in the fight for racial justice.

The president spoke at the historic Mother Emanuel AME

Calvary Housing Development Welcomes New Board Members

Attorneys Sheila M. Smith, N. Lynnette McNeeley, and Timothy Scott, were recently welcomed to the Calvary Housing Development Ltd. (CHDL) Board at a holiday gathering last month.

Their service and expertise will be vital to the CHDL as it continues to make reality the organization's vision of providing safe, affordable housing in Milwaukee.

Smith is a Howard University graduate who earned her law degree from the University of Wisconsin Law School.

She has significant economic development experience, much of which was gained while working as community organizer for the Northwest Side Community Development Corporation.

Atty. McNeely is a volunteer manager of JC Legal Resource Center, Inc., a non-profit legal resource organization that provides legal resources to members of Milwaukee's 53206-zip code.

McNeely has a passion for community service and has served on several community and professional boards.

Scott is an experienced construction professional with 30plus years in the industry.

He is currently president/project manager of Scotty's Construction and Building Services, whose work includes single family and commercial repair and rehabilitation, as well as preparing and reviewing contract documents.

He has served as a construction manager for Habitat for Humanity in Waukesha County.

Two long-serving members of the Calvary Housing Development, Limited board of directors, were honored at the event. Rita L. Johnson and Carole Culbreath retired from the board effective December 31.

They were presented awards for more than 40 years of distinguished service.

Both Johnson and Culbreath were among the founding members of the CHDL.

ident Donald Trump, the leading candidate seeking the Republican presidential nomination, who falsely claims he was reelected in 2020. Trump incited his supporters to march to the U.S. Capitol on Jan. 6, 2021, where they rioted to stop Congress from certifying Biden's election victory. Biden said Trump's efforts to whitewash the truth about the election and Jan. 6 are similar to efforts to distort America's ugly history of racism.

"The same movement that, throughout the mob at the United States Capitol, isn't just trying to rewrite history of Jan. 6, they're trying to determine to erase history and your future," Biden said, "banning books; denying your right to vote and have it counted; destroying diversity, equality, inclusion all across America; harboring hate and replacing hope with anger and resentment and a dangerous view of America."

Biden doesn't just give eloquent speeches to win the support of Black voters like those in the audience at Mother Emanuel. He delivers for all Americans of every race and ethnicity with the eloquence of action. His record is extraordinary and because of that, supporting him is in the best interest of our nation.

Biden's accomplishments include: rolling out free COVID-19 vaccines and treatments that saved lives and allowed schools and businesses to reopen (COVID strikes Black people more frequently than whites); reducing inflation; lowering unemployment to some of the lowest rates on record, including 5.2% for Black people in December; reducing health insurance and prescription drug costs; investing $7 billion in Historically Black Colleges and Universities; and working to preserve voting rights and reproductive rights in the face of harmful court rulings and Republican opposition.

Biden has also signed into law programs to fight climate change; invested about $400 billion in in-include Supreme Court Justice Ketanii Brown Jackson as the first Black woman on America's highest court and more Black federal judges than any president in American history. Biden has appointed 145 federal judges, including 44 who are Black. Trump appointed 153 federal judges, including just five Black people.

Biden's Black appointees include the heads of the Defense getting support from just 63% of Black voters — down from 87% in the 2020 election.

Trump had the support of 12% of Black voters in the USA Today poll — the same share he received in the 2020 election. But the share of Black votes going to third-party candidates skyrocketed from 1% four years ago to 20% today.

or state crimes he may have committed as president.

And recently, Trump said the Civil War could have been averted through negotiations. Sure, it could have if only President Abraham Lincoln had agreed to support a constitutional amendment saying Black people could be enslaved in every state and territory for eternity. What a missed opportunity!

I have no illusions that Biden or anyone else can solve every problem facing our nation, but Biden has accomplished a great deal already and recognizes the existence of problems facing Black Americans, like systemic racism.

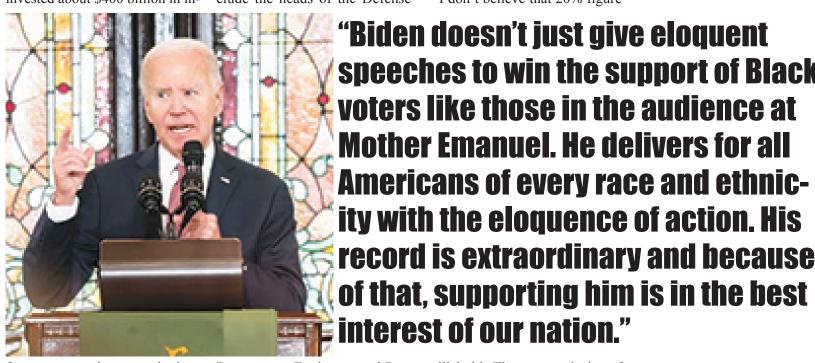

Trump and his fellow Republican presidential candidates deny systemic racism exists. They denounce diversity, equity and inclusion programs as racism against white people. And they say they want to cut taxes for the rich and cut funding for programs to help Americans at the bottom of the economic ladder, many of whom are Black. Further, they will continue to try to dismantle the Affordable Care Act and other governmental programs that seek to lift people out of poverty or financial ruin.

The audience at Mother Emanuel Church got it right when they chanted "Four more years" and cheered as Biden spoke. Now, Biden must lay out his vision so more voters can rally to the cause of protecting our freedoms and preserving our democ-

The U.S. FDA recently issued a ruling on menthol cigarettes that prohibits the manufacture and sale of menthol cigarettes in the United States, an action research estimates found could save up to 654,000 lives, including more than 238,000 Black Lives over the course of 40 years.

The ruling is a step towards righting the historic wrongs of the tobacco industry against African American communities, which it targeted for decades with its deadly menthol products. But, as also evidenced throughout history, the tobacco industry does not plan to go down without a fight. It's wielding its many resources to wage a campaign of misinformation related to the menthol ban, including that it will result in the "over policing of the Black community. In other words, "targeting."

It's downright shameless that an industry which still targets the Black community, is warning those same communities that they in fact, will be targeted when menthols are removed from the market. No one should ever mistake the tobacco industry as a trusted messenger.

The successful campaign they wielded to push menthols in Black communities resulted in tobacco being a major contributor to the three leading causes of death for African Americans: heart disease, cancer, and stroke, with 45,000 dying each year from smoking-related deaths.

The truth is, the FDA has said that it can't and won't enforce the ban against individuals who smoke or possess menthols. Saying the ban will result in over-policing is an example of the tobacco industry exploiting real issues in the community related to police brutality and mass incarceration. The fact of the matter is that the menthol ban will save countless lives, including those of our friends, loved ones, and future generations.

Community invited to learn free Hands-Only CPR Training at Gee's Clippers February 3

The Froedtert & MCW health network nurses and Milwaukee Fire Department EMS staff are hosting a FREE Hands-Only CPR and early cardiac care for the community at Gee's Clippers Barber and Beauty

Salon on Saturday, February 3. If performed immediately, CPR can double or triple the chance of survival from an out of hospital cardiac arrest.

The event takes place on Saturday, Feb. 3, 10-1:45 p.m. Sessions are 45 minutes long. To register, call 414-777-7700. Gee's Clippers Barber and Beauty Salon is located at 2200 N. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Drive, Milwaukee.

Most cardiac arrests happen in homes and public settings. Individuals with hands only CPR provides knowledge, confidence and skills to stay calm in a medical emergency, help a person in need and are prepared to make a difference in their community by being ready to jump into action anywhere a cardiac arrest happens.

Gee's MKE Wellness Clinic is a free health clinic and is located inside Gee's Clippers, which has served as an influential Milwaukee community hub for almost 30 years.

In partnership with Network Health and the Froedtert & MCW health network, the clinic provides free clinical services to the community every Friday.

The clinic supports efforts to reduce health disparities and improve quality of life in the diverse communities we serve, and meet community members where they are to bring them the health services and resources they need in a comfortable setting.

Funding came from the NEH's Cultural and Community Resilience program and the agency's special initiative American Tapestry: Weaving Together Past, Present, and Future, which identified the House of History project as "one that will help emphasize the role of the humanities in tackling contemporary social challenges: strengthening our democracy, advancing equity for all, and addressing our changing climate."

"House of History is establishing a dynamic platform to highlight the unique contributions and experiences of Milwaukee's Black LGBTQ+ community," says its creative director DeMar Walker, a Black cis gay man. "Our voices are necessary to better understand the nuances of place, identity, and authenticity."

"We have brought many gifts to this world," says house mother and outreach director Janice Toy, a Black trans woman. "For me it is an honor to be given this opportunity to share with the world these hidden jewels that have been overlooked or taken for granted; gifts and stories many have given and lost their lives over."

"Applying for this grant seemed like such a long shot, but definitely a shot worth taking," says project director Dr. Brice D. Smith, a white trans man with a PhD in history.

"Black LGBTQ+ people deserve their rightful place in history. Helping to make that happen is an honor and a privilege."

House of History will launch an interactive website June 5, and in the meantime is sharing videos on their YouTube channel House of History MKE.

Mikel Kwaku Osei Holt

My Herculean task in life has been to research pressing questions facing our nation within a nation,

America, and the world. Questions that, in totality, would hopefully move our community forward—or at least distract us from the PTSD that comes from being 'hue-men' in a black-and-white world. A decade ago, I started compartmentalizing, which helped reduce stress, anxiety, and my workload. As a result, I ended 2023 with only 1,321 unanswered questions, 42.6% of which had nothing to do with Black empowerment but were nonetheless ingredients in our cultural gumbo. Here, I continue with part

- When did the cross become a fashion item versus a declaration of faith? Is it plausibly acceptable or hypocritical for gangsters, urban terrorists, and drug dealers to sport crosses? But then again, as Tony Soprano said in the HBO series of the same name, even Mafia murderers have souls—and by contributing 10% of their ill-gotten gains to the Catholic church in the form of tithes, they should be able to buy their way into heaven.
- Would you support mandatory parenting classes for the parent(s) of wayward children?
- What did Juneteenth mean to the 451,021 African slaves in union states like Maryland, Delaware, Kentucky, and Missouri?

Despite what you've been told, the proclamation was limited to slaves in the Confederate 'states.' (President) Abe Lincoln's executive order was, in fact, a military tactic, as he had previously proclaimed he would leave slavery in place if the Confederacy remained in the union.

If I had my way, we would celebrate December 18, 1865—the day the 13th amendment was ratified-as Jubilee Day instead of June 19.

- What did our nine-year-old children do before they had cell phones to babysit and socialize them? Without a cell phone, they may be enticed to read books!
- How long can a 'decent' brother look at a sister's behind before it's considered obscene or an intrusion on her privacy-- their invisible

That may sound like a phantastic (my new word of the week) question, but in today's PC and 'Me Too' landscape, it's an issue that if incorrectly answered can land an innocent brother—even a minister or politician—in jail...or worse.

I answered that question in a Signifyin' column a year or so ago when a brother who joined a central city fitness center was verbally attacked for 'staring' at a sister's 'be-

The brother had no choice, given that the sister was positioned directly in front of him on a treadmill. For the record, in my initial column, I suggested you can look for approximately 97 seconds if you're a male and twice that long if you're

But, I've reconsidered my answer in light of the article in last week's WEEKEND edition, titled 'We need to stop exploiting Black women through the 'Booty Paradox!'

- Have you stopped 'learning?' According to the vocabulary website I subscribe to, I used 58 new words in 2023.
- My latest is 'timorous,' which prompts the question of why I was never taught its meaning in high school. One of my grandsons attended the prestigious Brookfield Academy. His vocabulary is twice as large as mine. Can you see where I'm going?

• Will you vote in the presidential election with the expectation of systemic change or personal benefit? Or will you vote—if you vote—to stop Donald Trump (assuming you vote Democrat)?

• Since I'm on that subject, are you an actual member of the Democratic Party, or simply vote for its candidates? There's a difference, you know. If you are not a card-carrying, dues-paying member, you don't have any say or input in the

- party's platform. • Is a fetus a human being, or merely the yolk of the (visualize a chicken) egg?
- · Why do most Black folks vote for political incumbents without

- Sisters, is your ideal man a sperm donor-male 'Neckbone'who doesn't take care of his child(ren), calls himself a 'pimp' and refers to you as his 'bitch' (b-word)? If a sister is not insulted by that declaration, something is amiss.
- I'm not trying to be salacious, but why is a woman's nipples considered a sexual item, but not the rest of the breast? Put a band-aid on the nipple or go to jail. A sister can't even breastfeed for fear of being charged with a crime, even though that's what the nipple was created
- What happened to the 'hoes' (aka: 'ho,' 'slut,' 'tramp') and the 'dogs' (aka: 'male hoes,' 'slingers,' less, most don't see the harm the invented concept has brought.

We could start the campaign by stopping the government from using race for identification purposes. I just checked a government form last week that asked if I was white, Asian, Hispanic, or African American/Black?

- I don't recall a day I haven't witnessed some foolish 'Neckbone' or urban terrorist driving recklessly down Fond du Lac Avenue, between Hampton and Capitol Drive. I'm not alone in asking when police will focus on ending the insanity that puts innocent lives in danger. Even an decoy car with a blow-up doll would have some positive effect.
- Is Black marriage—nuclear

- · Would you have voted for Barack Obama if he ran as a Republican? What about as an independent? In other words, are our political leaders viable only if they are screened and approved by the Democratic Party?
- Are Black people genetically superior to all other ethnicities? Without stereotyping too much, one study suggested Asians (particularly Japanese) have superior lower body strength, while Europeans have more muscular upper bodies. Africans are perfectly balanced.
- Why do sisters believe brothers are swayed by false eyelashes, long 'European' wigs, and padded bras?
- Why do sisters believe the garbage 'Neckbone men' are espousing? Do they really believe their Neckbone (sex mate) will marry them and stay with her for the baby's sake? Be faithful? What is it about 'bad boys' that is attractive to young sisters?
- What is the first step toward ending racism? Maybe the answer lies in recognizing or acknowledging there is but one race. There is no white race, nor is there a black, yellow, or brown race. Ethnicity and race are two totally separate concepts. Race, and thus racism, is a construct, an invention (by Europeans) to divide and conquer.
- How do you know if a 'preacher/minister/pastor has been 'called'? How can you differentiate between a preacher and an entertainer? Is 'you gotta have faith' an acceptable answer to questions that challenge scripture?
- Is serial polygamy the new norm? Can our village prosper with fatherless households under the 'Culture of Poverty' paradigm?
- Is Jesus (aka Emmanuel, Yeshua) a nigger (n-word)? I'm not being facetious. Nor am I being sacrilegious.

Mine is a question rooted in the asinine belief that nigger (n-word) is a term of affection for SOME Black (aka Negro, African American, Colored) people. The last person I asked that question of, an intelligent Black sister, answered 'yes.' Without hesitation or a hint of

 Have we gone overboard with this idiocy? Are we the only ethnic ity on planet earth with disregard for the impact of self-hatred?

• Would you date someone with dirty fingernails? I'm a hands man; it's the first thing I look at. Clipped nail polish, dirty nails, or burnt fingertips tell a story.

• Sisters, do you know one of the chambers in a man's brain is a 'nothing box?' It's true; I read it in a book---albeit I can't remember the Canadian psychologist author's name). The book focused on why women are better at multitasking.

In any event, sisters should realize that when you ask a brother what he is thinking about, and he says 'nothing,' he's actually telling

And in the void of nothingness, we find safety, peace, and escape from reality.

- · Would the world come to an end if you cut off service to cell phones for three hours?
- Do you support term limits?
- Speaking of political accountability, when was the last time you talked with your alderperson, county supervisor, or state representative? Do you know who your school board representative is? Ninety-four percent of you can't answer that question because you did-
- Do you know the lyrics of the Black National Anthem? That's probably not a fair question. Can you get away with lip-syncing the lyrics along with half the other brothers and sisters in the room?
- Who the hell came up with the Juneteenth Day Flag? Check that. I know who created it, so my real question is, why wasn't the Black public provided an opportunity to vote on it? I would have been happy with Marcus Garvey's Black Liberation flag---with a broken chain and welfare checks representing stars.
- By the way, you know the emancipation proclamation probably would not have survived court scrutiny? Some constitutional attorneys believe the union could not take 'contraband' from a non-foreign
- Also, there are those in legal circles who posit the Confederacy had a right to succeed and thus keep slavery alive—until a slave revolt, which would no doubt have destroyed the country. I can envision a screenplay under that scenario in which that slave revolt would have led to a Black independent nation.
- Let's assume God made a perfect mate for you somewhere on this planet of five billion people. What are the odds that you will meet them? And since that's obscenely low, do you settle for sec-knowing their records, political positions, or who may be 'secretly' funding their campaigns?'

- Who created that disingenuous motto of 'happy wife, happy life?' Doesn't it imply that a brother's happiness is secondary in a marriage, if not completely ignored?
- Do your Black Democratic Party representatives work for you or for the party? Consider, for example, over 80% of Black constituents support school choice, but 80% of Black Democrats oppose it because that is the party's platform (as dictated by the teachers union).
- What is the Black agenda? I keep hearing radio pundits and social advocates lambasting Black politicians for not facilitating the Black agenda. But I haven't listened to any of them explain what 'agenda' item they are speaking of.
- What the hell is a 'Black card'? Does not adhering to its principles mean you can't eat collard greens, use hot sauce, or say 'dis' instead of 'this'? Does losing your 'black card' mean you lose melanin? Does that explain what happened to Michael Jackson?

My siblings refused to honor his request, so he turned to me. He explained that pigs feet were among his few comforts besides 'listening' to old westerns on television. Pops knew he was close to death and wanted to go out with what he considered a familiar taste on his palate (he was from the deep, deep south).

Who were we to dictate his needs? Was our decision for his benefit or ours?

So I purchased a couple and asked my 'bonus mother' to cook them. My father smiled. And I facilitated his 'desire' two other times in his final year. I suspect an occasional pigs foot may have extended his life and, at the very least, brought back fond memories.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article is an op-ed, and the views expressed are the author's own. Six decades after Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. led the March on Washington, our nation continues to witness attempts to dismantle hard-fought rights and the very institutions that support our democracy. And while some may say that we are more divided than ever, as CEO of AmeriCorps, I've had the opportunity to witness the opposite. I've seen how service is the heartbeat of our democracy and builds bridges where divisions threaten to tear us apart.

Dr. King once preached, "Darkness cannot drive out darkness: only light can do that. Hate cannot drive out hate: only love can do that."

Each year on the Martin Luther King Jr. Day of Service, we have the opportunity to show the world that service is love in action. Even more, it is democracy in action. Serving together, and serving each other, enables us to see each other's humanity.

It illuminates that great indisputable truth: what we have in common is stronger than what we don't.

Led by AmeriCorps in partnership with the King Family, the MLK Day of Service provides an opportunity to act on Dr. King's "fierce urgency of now" and deliver on the promise of a "beloved community" — a society where hunger, poverty, violence, and racism cease to exist. Service holds tremendous power — it harnesses opportunity and change; it creates momentum. Service — whether one day or every day — often becomes a defining moment, enabling people to plot their intentions and take ownership of the challenges and opportunities they face. Through servant leadership, we can resist the paralysis of inaction while immersing ourselves in our community.

At AmeriCorps, we see it all the time. Serving in a school sparks a career in education. Disaster recovery volunteers become leaders in disaster management. And now President Biden's American Climate Corps is set to mobilize the next generation of clean energy and climate resilience workers.

On this MLK Day, I find myself reflecting on AmeriCorps' service mission, and I'm reminded that our agency's very roots are firmly planted in poverty alleviation, dating back to President Johnson's War on Poverty and the creation of the VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America) program, which remains part of our agency. Decades later, poverty remains one of the most significant factors impacting far too many Ameri-

The strain of economic insecurity leads to so much struggle, from food security to education, and it affects underserved communities and communities of color drastically and disproportionately. Dr. King recognized this, naming it as one of the "Triple Evils," alongside racism and militarism.

That's why AmeriCorps just announced nearly $90 million in federal funding to address poverty across the country. As part of the Biden-Harris administration, we are committed to ending poverty for all — in every community. And that movement perpetually reignites through moments like the MLK Day of Service, and with each new member that takes up the mantle to serve their neighbors. It's clear that community service has the power to bring communities together, to bring about justice where there is injustice, and to heal divides in these polarizing times. It allows us to embark on a path, a first step of charity toward a final destination of equity and justice.

Today, AmeriCorps members — those who make a difference in so many lives — are more racially and ethnically diverse than America, and 40 percent come from low-income households. We've even seen how Ameri-Corps members were up to two times more likely to vote in previous elections than the general public

MLK Day and the rise of modern hate in America

In an interview with the Grio, King's daughter Bernice King says in the United States, "we don't know how to deal with hate." BY APRIL RYAN grio.com)

On what would've been the 94th birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the civil rights icon who helped turn the tide on racial inequality in the United States and abroad, hate in America continues to dominate decades after his 1968 assassination.

According to data compiled by the extremism research center at California State University at San Bernardino, over the past four years hate crimes have continued to climb.

As reported by VOA News, "U.S. hate crimes have been on the rise in recent years, driven by factors ranging from a surge in anti-Asian sentiments during the COVID-19 pandemic to anti-Black animus in reaction to racial justice protests that broke out across America in 2020 after the killing of African American George Floyd while in police custody."

"I feel that not all, but many whites, feel threatened," Dr. Amos Brown, a pastor who sits on the NAACP's National Board annual service is held in honor of the life of civil rights icon Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. who would have turn 94 on January 15th. (Photo by Paras Griffin/Getty Images via the cial philosophy class.

Brown offers a simple solution to the modern rise in hate in America: "We need to get to know each other, and particularly the majority needs to understand that we are human."

Civil rights leader Al Sharpton tells theGrio, "unless we aggressively work along with the [Assistant] Attorney General [for Civil Rights] Kristen Clarke and [Associate Attorney General] Vanita Gupta and prosecute people, and back them up, we're going to continue to see it happen."

Dr. King was disciplined in his commitment to rise against the racial hate of his time through non-violent disobedience. However, his violent death was in great contrast to what he
