THE REALNESS
A BREAK BEAT PLAY BY Idris Goodwin
Directed by Denzel Taylor

Performance Dates: August 8 – 11, 15 – 18, 22 – 25 | 7:30pm • Todd Wehr Theater, Marcus Center

1996 is an incredible time to be a hip-hop fan, so the moment T. O. escapes the suburbs, he plunges into the scene, eager to experience the culture for himself. It doesn't get much more real than Prima, a super-dope MC supporting her family, and the moment he meets her, T. O. falls madly in love. But when he becomes tangled in the lies he tells to get closer to her, he's forced to ask himself: is he after real love, or fulfilling a middle-class fantasy of rap? Idris Goodwin takes on tough questions of authenticity and class collision with humor, heart, and killer rhymes in a coming-of-age tale set to the beat of hip-hop history.

Stories About The Old Days
By Bill Harris

Performance Dates: August 15 – 17 | 7:30pm
The Table, 5310 W Capitol Dr. Milwaukee, WI 53216

Directed by Nic Starr & Sheri Williams Pannell, A former blues singer living in a decaying church in Detroit never ventures out into the world that rejected him. While playing checkers he and Ivy, one the last members of the congregation, move from animosity to friendship. Both have secrets from the old days: he conceals his struggle of faith and despair and she withholds a searing loss as they rescue each other from emotional numbness and terminal loneliness. This wonderful play with superb roles for older Black actors was produced to acclaim in New York at the Henry Street Settlement.

IN THE BLOOD
By Suzan-Lori Parks
Directed by Lori A. Woodall (Staged Reading)

Performance Date: Tuesday, August 20 at 7:30pm
The Table, 5310 W Capitol Dr. Milwaukee, WI 53216
Pay What You Can (At The Door)

Winner of the 2022 Pulitzer Prize for Drama. A darkly comic fable of brotherly love and family identity is Suzan-Lori Parks' latest riff on the way we are defined by history. The play tells the story of Lincoln and Booth, two brothers whose names were given to them as a joke, foretelling a lifetime of sibling rivalry and resentment. Haunted by the past, the brothers are forced to confront the shattering reality of their future.

for colored girls who have considered suicide / when the rainbow is enuf.
directed by linetta alexander

Performance Dates: August 8 – 12, 15 – 16, 22 – 25 | 7:30pm • Wilson Theater at Vogel Hall, Marcus Center

In for colored girls who have considered suicide / when the rainbow is enuf Ntozake Shange illuminates the kaleidoscope of Black women's experiences, weaving a vibrant tapestry of resilience, pain, and triumph. The play serves as a powerful testament to the interconnectedness of Black women, portraying their voices as instruments of empowerment and transformation. Through the poetic mosaic of individual narratives, it highlights the significance of Black women as a 'third place' for each other—a sanctuary where shared stories, sorrows, and joys converge to forge bonds of solidarity. In their collective strength, these women not only navigate the complexities of their lives but also spark movements, amplifying the potency of their voices to ignite change, resilience, and unyielding hope.

Student loan debt drops $10 billion due to Biden Administration forgiveness!

New Education Department Rules hold hope for 30 million more borrowers

By Charlene Crowell

As consumers struggle to cope with mounting debt, a new economic report from the Federal Reserve Bank of New York includes an unprecedented glimmer of hope.

Although debt for mortgages, credit cards, auto loans and more increased by billions of dollars in the second quarter of 2024, student loan debt decreased by $10 billion.

According to the New York Fed, borrowers ages 40-49 and ages 18-29 benefitted the most from the reduction in student loan debt.

In a separate and recent independent finding, 57 percent of Black Americans hold more than $25,000 in student loan debt compared to 47 percent of Americans overall, according to The Motley Fool's analysis of student debt by geography, age and race.

Black women have an average of $41,466 in undergraduate student loan debt one year after graduation, more than any other group and $10,000 more than men.

This same analysis found that Washington, DC residents car-quality of life.

This decline is even more noteworthy in light of a series of legal roadblocks to loan forgiveness. In response to these legal challenges, the Education Department on August 1 began emailing all borrowers of an approaching August 30 deadline to contact their loan servicer to decline future financial relief.

Borrowers preferring to be considered for future relief proposed by pending departmental regulations should not respond.

If approved as drafted, the new rules would benefit over 30 million borrowers, including those who have already been approved for debt cancellation over the past three years.

"These latest steps will mark the next milestone in our efforts to help millions of borrowers who've been buried under a mountain of student loan interest, or who took on debt to pay for college programs that left them worse off financially, those who have been paying their loans for twenty or more years, and many others," said U.S. Secretary of Education Miguel Cardona.

The draft rules would benefit borrowers with either partial or full forgiveness in the following categories:

- Borrowers who owe more now than they did at the start of repayment.

This category is expected to largely benefit nearly 23 million borrowers, the majority of whom are Pell Grant recipients.

- Borrowers who have been in repayment for decades. Borrowers of both undergraduate and graduate loans who began repayment on or before July 1, 2000 would qualify for relief in this category.

- Borrowers who are otherwise financial value programs. If a borrower attended an institution that failed to provide sufficient financial value, or that failed one of the Department's accountability standards for institutions, those borrowers would also be eligible for debt relief.

Most importantly, if the rules become approved as drafted, no related application or actions would be required from eligible borrowers -- so long as they did not opt out of the relief by the August 30 deadline.

"The regulations would deliver on unfulfilled promises made by the federal government to student loan borrowers over decades and offer remedies for a dysfunctional system that has often created a financial burden, rather than economic mobility, for student borrowers pursuing a better future," stated the Center for American Progress in an August 7 web article.

"Meanwhile, the Biden-Harris administration also introduced income limits and caps on relief to ensure the borrowers who can afford to pay the full amount of their debts do so."

"The Center for American Progress estimates the interest waiver provisions would deliver relief to roughly 6 million Black borrowers, or 23 percent of the estimated number of borrowers receiving relief, as well as 4 million Hispanic or Latino borrowers (16 percent) and 13.5 million white borrowers (53 percent)."

These pending regulations would further expand the $168.5 billion in financial relief that the Biden Administration has already provided to borrowers:

- $69.2 billion for 946,000 borrowers through fixes to Public Service Loan Forgiveness (PSLF).

- $51 billion for more than 1 million borrowers through administrative adjustments to IDR payment counts.

These adjustments have brought borrowers closer to forgiveness and addressed long-

Vivent Health Presents the 2nd Annual Dining Out for Life Milwaukee, September 12th!

Annual fundraiser supports MKE residents impacted by HIV

On Thursday, September 12th, Vivent Health will host the 2nd annual Dining Out for Life event to raise funds of support for Vivent Health's food pantry.

For one day only, some of Milwaukee's best restaurants and bars and true allies of the LGBTQ+ community will donate a generous portion of their proceeds to make a difference right here in our community by helping provide healthy food for Milwaukeeans living with HIV.

Vivent Health is one the nation's leading HIV care providers, helping nearly 4,000 Milwaukeeans living with HIV and thousands more who are affected by this disease.

Support for the food pantry reflects Vivent Health's holistic approach to serving the whole person, offering not only the latest HIV treatments but also food, housing, and case management.

Considering all these resources as HIV care makes all the difference—Wisconsin patients reach viral suppression rates of 95%, compared to the national average of 62%.

“As a community-based organization, Vivent Health must continue delivering the services and programs that meet the most critical health needs of our community and remain nimble so we can adapt as those needs change,” said Margaret Lidstone, Vivent Health's Chief Philanthropy and Community Engagement Officer.

“Dining Out for Life is instrumental in ensuring that this happens. All funds raised during this one-day event support the health and well-being of the Milwaukee community who need care.”

Last year, Vivent Health provided 11,250 pantry orders to nearly 1,100 clients and their families—a 37% increase from 2022. This year, those needs continue to grow.

Some of the LGBTQ+ allied restaurants and bars participating in Dining Out for Life include 2024 James Beard finalist Amilinda, Barette, La Cage Club, Cubanitas, and Flour Girl & Flame. Core sponsors include Gilead Sciences, Green Bay Packers Give Back, and Tri North Builders, Inc.

“Food is health. It seems like an obvious choice for us to participate in Dining Out for Life, an event that benefits all sectors of our community,” said Greg León, Executive Chef at Amilinda and Vivent Health supporter.

Molson Coors to Host Thurgood Marshall College Fund Innovation Challenge

HBCU students to compete for cash prizes by pitching solutions to Molson Coors panel

Molson Coors will host its 3rd annual Innovation Challenge in Milwaukee from Aug. 21-24, maintaining the company's commitment to investing in the next generation of diverse leaders.

In partnership with the Thurgood Marshall College Fund (TMCF), 25 students from Historically

Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs) across the country will participate in a four-day immersive experience at the company's corporate office, including a pitch competition before a panel of expert judges that will take place Aug. 24.

The Innovation Challenge kick-off event will take place Aug. 21 at 3rd Street Market Hall's Top Golf Swing Suite.

Molson Coors, in collaboration with TMCF, will host its Innovation Challenge in Milwaukee, highlighting the company's dedication to investing in underrepresented communities and identifying developing talent.

HBCU students will showcase their innovative ideas by developing their own business solutions for a Molson Coors-related challenge.

Students will present their ideas before a panel and have the opportunity to interview for internship and entry-level positions at Molson Coors.

"This place gives me the creeps!"
When a band of twenty-something scavengers sets their sights on an abandoned space station, little do they know that their search for treasure would lead to the reawakening of alien beings.

A creepy feeling is an understatement. They're gonna be ravaged and destroyed!

In the 22nd century, life on the dark, sunless Jackson Star Mining Colony is hard. Miners are worked to death and promised freedom. But instead, they're bound. Like indentured slaves.

Rain (Cailee Spaeny, Civil War) worked her extra hours and was ready to escape with her friend Andy (David Jonsson, Rye Lane), an android whose technical name is ND-255. Travel permit denied.

Trip gone. So, when her ex-lover Tyler (Archie Renaux, Morbius) reaches out to her with some crazy scheme involving blasting off in a hijacked spaceship, searching for resources and possibly a getaway, she's game.

Rain, Tyler and his crew are ready for action.

There's the menacing ram-bunctious sidekick Bjorn (Spike Fearn, Aftersun), loving sister Kay (Isabela Merced, Father of the Bride) and the feisty pilot Navarro (Aileen Wu). They board a vessel, head to outer space and hook up with a ghosted space station. What could go wrong? Facehuggers, chestbursters and xenomorphs—aka aliens—are nesting, reviving and looking for prey. "There's something in the f—ing water!"

FilmNoir/Review

The first Alien movie back in '79, directed by Ridley Scott and starring Sigourney Weaver, became an iconic horror/sci-fi movie that spawned sequels helmed by heavy-weight directors like James Cameron (Avatar), David Fincher (Se7en) and Jean-Pierre Jeunet (Delicatessen).

Handing the reins to the b-movie horror genre loving Fede Alvarez is a gamble. His 2013 remake of Evil Dead made $97M+ at the international box office—but to mixed reviews. His 2016 feature Don't Breathe fared better ($157M and more positive reviews). You reap what you sow from who you hire.

The visual excellence of Ridley Scott's first Alien is missing from this saga. An unsurpassed sense of timing and adventure, similar to Cameron's Aliens, is also absent.

Lots of the footage. and its lighting is darker than need be (cinematographer Galo Olivares). As are the color palette (art director Monica Alberte) and interiors (production designer Naaman Marshall, The Dark Knight).

The clothes don't necessarily fit the period, except for Andy's puke green uniform (costume designer Carlos Rosario, Shogun). Even the alien creatures are generic as they flash sharp teeth, drip spit, bite bodies and invade their new hosts.

We've seen it all before and these special visual effects aren't particularly distinguishable.

So how does Alvarez get fear across to the audience? How does he make hearts jump up into throats? He relies heavily on thunderous sound effects and an intense, loud musical score (Benjamin Wallfisch, Twisters).

He trusts these devices to make the dread more foreboding, the action more pronounced and the deaths ghastlier.

That's the secret formula. The theater vibrates with heavy bass when danger lurks, and bodies are blooded.

Hard to measure how high the decibels go, but they're enough to fray nerves. It's a PTSD that lasts after you leave the theater.

That's when you feel like you've just been run over by a truck. The violence on view is horrific. But sounds of it are far more affecting.

It's slow going for the first 30 minutes and outside of a space ride and landing, nothing is impressive.

Once the aliens attack the so-cocky-you-deserve-to-be-chewed-up crew, and they learn something weird is after them, that's when the pace finds its rhythm (editor Jake Roberts).

Credit Alvarez for ultimately whipping the audience into a frenzy, even if Aliens: Romulus... Okay, but definately not the classic 'Alien,' or 'Aliens'!

it's with basic horror/sci-fi tricks.

But imagine what this experience would have been like if his visual game was as strong as his audio one.

That would have made this movie more than just an assaulting experience.

Spaeny is good not great. Similar to her efforts in Civil War.

A bit petite for the role. Hard to imagine her as an action hero, unlike the towering Sigourney Weaver who played Ripley in the OG Alien.

Renaux is solid as the group's leader. Fearn is a bit nasty as Bjorn, as he should be.

Merced is likable. Wu adds a gusty spirit to Navarro, giving that character a futuristic warrior vibe.

She would have made the Rain character far more believable.

She's more Ripley than Spaeny will ever be.

In the British rom/com film Rye Lane, Jonsson struck the right chord between neglected lover and fervent boyfriend.

Here he seems off bal-servient ways, is a flaw in his interpretation of the character.

Also, a flaw in the script's cludes him becoming the big savior in the end.

Alien: Romulus will give the target audience the

They'll take it for what it is. An engaging, generic horror/sci-fi/thriller. That's "In the British rom/com film, 'Rye Lane,' Jonsson (pictured in the above photos) struck the right chord between neglected lover and fervent boyfriend. Here he seems off balance as he figures out how to play a Black android who looks human, is smart but way too passive. Watching him kowtow to a white female lead, in subservient ways, is a flaw in his interpretation of the character. Also, a flaw in the script's weak character development. Awkward enough to make Black audiences wince."

ance as he figures out how to play a Black android who looks human, is smart but way too passive.

Watching him kowtow to a white female lead, in sub-weak character development. Awkward enough to make Black audiences wince.

Especially if they're hoping his character arc increeps. It isn't Alien. It isn't Aliens. Not close.

But since the screenplay is so self-contained, there's a generation who just won't care what came before this an observation. Not an accomplishment.
