Superintendent of Public Instruction candidate Kinser is mad about the state of public education in Wisconsin!

Department of Public Instruction (DPI) Superintendent candidate Brittany Kinser is mad.

Make that extremely, excessively, exceedingly mad.

This is not just because the recent NAEP National Report Card revealed that the proficiency rate outstate remains stagnant, but more importantly, Milwaukee hosts the worst rates in the country.

The academic achievement proficiency gap between Black and white students is the worst in the entire nation.

Kinser is doubly mad because neither of her two opponents, incumbent Jill Underly and Jeff Wright, have plans to impact that abysmal reality.

Brittany Kinser

In fact, neither have made what stakeholders are calling 'educational apartheid' a concern. That might be because neither Underly nor Wright have a history of working with Black children.

For whatever reason, both are seemingly apathetic to the generational failure of Milwaukee's Black children.

Nothing was put in place to close the achievement gap during Underly's term, resulting in another generation of illiteracy and poverty. During her tenure, Underly's 'solution' was more money, a questionable solution supported by her 'colleague' Wright.

And that's despite a billion-dollar investment by the governor, two MPS referendums of a quarter of a billion dollars, and millions in federal aid from the COVID epidemic (millions of which have not been accounted for).

Two years ago, the Milwaukee board added insult to injury when directors 'raised' (as in 'pay raise') themselves despite an abysmal academic achievement track record.

They increased the inept superintendent's (former MPS Sup. Keith Posey) salary to equal that of the president of the United States— despite representing less than 60,000 students.

The Posey was forced to quit following revelations that his administration had not complied with state mandates for the last few years, costing the district over $50 million.

DPI Superintendent incumbent Underly says change in academic standards was a reponse to teachers' needs!

Compiled by MCJ Editorial Staff

Wisconsin Superintendent for Public Instruction Jill Underly said she did not lower the state's educational standards as critics of the first-term incumbent have claimed.

"I would tell people that we didn't lower standards full stop," Underly said in a recent interview with Spectrum News One about her candidacy, accomplishments as superintendent, and the state of Wisconsin education.

You don't get to sixth in the nation for education by lowering standards."

Underly, who will face-off in a February 18 primary against Sauk Prairie School District Sup. Jeff Wright, and educational leader Brittany Kinser, explained that DPI raised standards in math and science, and added standards for career and technical education.

"We added a literacy score, and as a result of making changes, you have to change the grading scale. We also changed the grading scale to match the test, which is what our teachers wanted.

"We had teachers come in; they're the ones that made the revisions. They're the ones that said, 'Let's actually have a grading scale that measures what the kids are learning.' And so, our teachers were the ones that came to me and said, 'Can you do this?' And it was very transparent. Despite what everybody else says, it was transparent."

But it didn't seem transparent to Underly's critics, including the governor, state legislators, and local education leaders—especially those in Milwaukee who have spent years following the state of the city's public education system.

During a recent forum on what many refer to as the dismal state of Wisconsin's largest school district, a panel made up of an MPS board director, two journalists who have covered Milwaukee education for decades, and the president of the Milwaukee Branch of the NAACP, painted an unflattering picture of MPS (Milwaukee Public Schools).

The term 'education apartheid' was repeatedly echoed.

The consensus among panelists was that MPS was in dire need of an overhaul; one that prioritizes reading and math fundamentals and would hopefully close the academic achievement gap between Black and White students.

Milwaukee is the home to the lowest fourth and eighth-grade reading proficiency rates in the country, as well as the widest gap in White and Black academic achievement.

One of the panelists, MCJ Associate Publisher and columnist Mikel Holt, believes Underly has lowered academic standards to make it appear the children are doing better than reported. All of the panelists agreed.

Holt noted over one-third of Black children are failing in MPS. He added that Milwaukee has among the lowest graduation rates and the broadest academic gaps in the country.

"Most revealing is that the only high school in zip code 53206—North Division—has the lowest proficiency rates for math, reading, Black Milwaukee recently kicked-off Black History Month in style dressed in African and Caribbean-style attire, walking the runway, and enjoying food and festivities at the 6th annual Indaba African Ball, held at the St. Ann Center for Intergenerational Care.

There was live music, a basket raffle and an African marketplace, to name a few of the activities at the ball. The main event of the evening, however, was the introduction of the 2025 Hall of History Maker Honorees. The honorees for this year were:

Superintendent of Public Instruction candidate Kinser is mad about the state of public education in Wisconsin!

Nonetheless, he walked away with a million-dollar retirement package.

Kinser is cut from a different branch of the educational tree, a reality that separates her from the DPI superintendents over the last three decades.

She believes that continuing to ignore the crisis in Milwaukee's education system will ultimately result in a systemic implosion and destroy the city, ensuring its reliance on a service industry economy.

More families will likely leave the district, resulting in the state taking over, or fiscal realities (MPS cannot sustain itself with less than 50% of the city's student population; it's now at 53%) will force bankruptcy.

"(I'm mad) because the recent NAEP results showed only 5% of Black students are proficient in reading/math. Three out of 10 statewide."

She is doubly mad because Underly's response to embarrassing proficiency rates was to lower "standards" to make it appear the students were doing better than that.

That insulting strategy angered community activists and the governor and state lawmakers, who have introduced legislation to rescind Underly's questionable policy change.

Governor Tony Evers reportedly supports that measure, having criticized Underly last month.

Unlike her two opponents, Kinser has an extensive background in working with diverse communities, particularly African American students. Most recently, she headed Milwaukee's highly regarded and successful Rocketship schools.

As noted on her LinkedIn page and in an interview with me Monday, she has "championed high standards for students and families throughout her career as an education leader.

"Beginning as a special educator, she transitioned into leadership roles where she has led the growth of schools, developed innovative programs, and held executive positions in national and local educational organizations.

As a co-founder of a high-impact literacy initiative, '95 Wisconsin,' she addresses the reading crisis by supporting educators and school leaders in teaching students to read skillfully. With advanced degrees in education and a passion for expanding opportunities, (she) is dedicated to creating transformative change for students and schools."

I tell stakeholders and parents that I was immensely impressed with Kinser based on my interview, particularly her passion for closing the achievement gap by prioritizing reading and math intervention.

She supports exploring initiatives proven successful in Florida, Louisiana, and Mississippi, of all places.

Those programs are focused on kindergarteners and use individual and team monitoring to ensure students are on grade level before they advance.

Reading is not only fundamental; it was crucial, Kinser explained, for self-development, breaking the cycle of poverty, and avoiding the pitfalls of life in an urban community.

While school boards, DPI, and lawmakers have hidden their heads in the sand, "we've lost two generations," adding to her frustration and anger.

"It doesn't have to be this way. It truly doesn't."

There is nothing wrong or different about Black children, and their underachievement can be traced to factors---poor family structure, poverty, and insufficient teaching--- which can be offset, as was the case for students in my generation.

Parental involvement, which her opponents have not mentioned, is essential.

MPS has an extremely low parent participation rate for parent conferences---under 20%.

Rocketship seeks a 90% parental involvement ratio, which includes attending parent conferences, receiving regular reports from teachers, and actively participating in the educational process.

Kinser was shocked to learn Milwaukee was under 18%. Utilizing Rocketship paradigms successfully elsewhere---including door-to-door visits, scheduled telephone calls, and conferences when necessary---she achieved a goal of 85%.

To call that transformation (and its resulting impact on academic achievement) phenomenal is an understatement. It is mind-blowing that MPS has not acknowledged, much less implemented policies and programs to address that vital link to academic achievement.

Despite her qualifications, successful track record, and most importantly the passion to tear down the apartheid walls, Kinser has found herself under attack by Democrats, the teachers union, and the 'education' that supports the failing status quo.

"I'm gonna make people mad," she declared, explaining that she would go directly to the heart of the problems and prioritize what is best for students over adults.

That's not to say she will ignore issues like pay equity, safe school environments, and technological resources, but those concerns will take a back seat to student achievement.

To stop the drain of students who have left the district for greener academic pastures---including Underly, who was chided for saying she opposed options for Black parents but chose to send her children to a private school because, as she said, "I am privileged"---Kinsey said you must create a successful paradigm, a model where students stand on equal footing and achievement is the norm, not the exception.

"It's hard work, it's not fun---turning around the district. It's gonna make people mad," because special interests not only have blocked every major reform initiative of the last two decades but control the MKE school board.

Making matters worse is that state Democratic leadership has stood in the shadows or blocked reforms offered by Republicans while generation after generation of Black children is imprisoned in the abyss of mediocracy.

Despite her resume, Kinsey has been branded a 'Republican' (she is not) because she supported educational options, including school choice. (The state superintendent is responsible for ALL state children, public, private, and home-schooled.)

"The crime isn't vouchers; it's illiteracy," she declared. ("The attacks on me are in truth distractions.")

The crime is that national test scores show Milwaukee's district as the worst this side of Brazil, but neither the local board nor the superintendent has done anything of note to change that status quo.

The crime is outstate citizens, politicians, and educational leadership hiding their heads in the sand (or worse, supporting education apartheid) as thousands of Black children are allowed to slip through the cracks. Make those giant donut holes of failure.

Kinsey said she was advised not to run for state office, not only because of the verbal assassination that follows any candidate questioning the status quo, much less try to fix the failure, but also because too many people view public (government) education through political blinders.

"I was told Milwaukee is not open to innovation, leading to (my) frustration and anger. I was told the Democrats will attack your character; they (opponents) will attack and ruin your career.

But I'm not scared. I'm p.is.ed. ed."

The Democrats are on the wrong side of history when it comes to education, particularly options for poor Black children, she said, expressing her political independence. "They question options but send their children to private schools.

"I decided to run because those who warned me couldn't answer the question of "who is the voice of our kids; who will improve education for their sake?"

"I decided I wanted to be that person."—Hotep.

Black newspaper publishers group to take on DEI rollbacks

NNPA launches campaign to hold companies accountable for DEI rollback

Article courtesy of the Minnesota Spokesman-Recorder, an NNPA newspaper

In a bold move to address a troubling trend in corporate America, the National Newspaper Publishers Association (NNPA) has launched a national public education campaign in response to the rollback of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) programs by several major corporations.

This initiative, aimed at holding these companies accountable, calls on Black consumers to reconsider where they spend their money, sending a strong message to corporate America that the Black community will not tolerate such regressive actions.

(Editor's note: The Milwaukee Community Journal is a long-time member of the NNPA. The paper's publisher, Patricia O'Flynn-Pattillo, was its first ever woman president, elected to the office in the mid-1980s.)

A Bold Stand for Racial Justice and Equity

The NNPA, which represents the Black Press of America, is no stranger to advocacy. With a rich history of informing and empowering the Black community, the organization has long been at the forefront of racial justice efforts.

NNPA Chairman Bobby R. Henry Sr. expressed his firm stance on the matter, declaring, "We are the trusted voice of Black America, and we will not be silent or nonresponsive to the rapid rise of renewed Jim Crow racist policies in corporate America."

The NNPA's new campaign is designed to shed light on the companies that have backpedaled on their DEI commitments, an action that is detrimental to racial justice, equity, and inclusion.

This national campaign will not only expose these corporate practices but will also be backed by research data that highlights the companies' roles in perpetuating racial injustice, inequitable policies, and divisive leadership.

The goal is to ensure that DEI initiatives are not just buzzwords for corporations but are practiced in tangible, meaningful ways.

The Power of Black Consumer Spending

The financial influence of Black consumers cannot be overstated. NNPA President and CEO Dr. Benjamin F. Chavis Jr. reminded the public, "Black Americans spend $2 trillion dollars annually as consumers of products and services throughout the United States."

Given this massive economic power, the NNPA is calling for Black Americans to reflect on their purchasing decisions.

Why should we continue to support companies that disregard or devalue the contributions of Black communities?

Dr. Chavis's statement underscores the contradictions between Black Americans' economic impact and the lack of respect from corporations that have scaled back or completely abandoned their DEI initiatives.

For centuries, Black Americans have fought for equality and inclusion, and now, the NNPA is demanding that corporate America respects the community's power, both economically and socially.

Selective Buying: A Call for Change

A key component of the NNPA's public education campaign is the idea of selective buying—a strategic approach to consumerism that encourages Black Americans to evaluate where they spend their money and to prioritize companies that align with values of justice, fairness, and inclusion.

This call for selective buying is an invitation to join the fight for racial equity and make corporate America take notice.

The campaign specifically targets companies that have publicly abandoned DEI efforts, including major corporations like Amazon, Target, Lowe's, John Deere, Walmart, Meta, Tractor Supply, McDonald's, and Ford.

The message is clear: Black consumers will no longer remain passive in the face of corporate retreat from diversity.

What's Next: The Fight for Accountability and Change

As the campaign gains momentum, NNPA member publications will continue to release data on companies that have failed to meet their DEI commitments.

This research will help Black consumers make informed choices about where they choose to spend their money.

At the same time, the NNPA will remain steadfast in its efforts to hold these corporations accountable for their actions.

The national public education campaign is more than just a call for awareness—it's a call to action.

With a collective economic force of 50 million Black Americans, the NNPA is pushing for meaningful change, ensuring that companies understand the value of supporting diversity, equity, and inclusion, not just through words, but through meaningful, actionable steps.

A Message to Corporate America: Stop Retreating from DEI

The retreat from DEI programs by several prominent companies follows a larger political trend, most notably the U.S. Supreme Court ruling in June 2023 against affirmative action in college admissions and the executive orders issued by former President Donald Trump that sought to dismantle diversity initiatives.

The attack on DEI is not only bad for America's social fabric but also harmful to businesses that depend on diversity for innovation, broader talent pools, and improved performance.

In response to this growing threat, the NNPA encourages Black Americans to evaluate their support for companies that have scaled back or eliminated DEI programs.

This movement is about more than just boycotting—it's about demanding accountability and ensuring that corporations that have benefited from Black consumer spending understand that DEI is not negotiable.

It's time for Black Americans to leverage their collective power to send a message to corporate America: if you don't stand for diversity and inclusion, we won't stand for you.

and science in the entire state," Holt wrote in his 'Signifyin' column on the forum (published December 11, 2024).

Another panelist, Milwaukee Journal Sentinel education reporter Alan Borsuk, said the dismal state of Milwaukee education reminded him of a joke among researchers: "thank God for Detroit," a reference to the only city with worse achievement records than Milwaukee.

A Milwaukee organization, 'City Forward Collective,' echoed much of what the panelists stated at the forum.

In a front page article published in the February 5 edition of the MCJ titled: 'National Education

Scores Highlight Severe Crisis for Milwaukee Students,' City Forward Collective revealed recently released findings from the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP).

The NAEP findings revealed stagnant outcomes throughout Wisconsin and a severe crisis for Milwaukee students (especially those attending MPS).

"(The) NAEP results underscore a stark and unacceptable reality: Wisconsin's students—especially in Milwaukee—are falling further behind," said Colleston Morgan, Jr., executive director of City Forward Collective, an organization that advocates for rigorous academic expectations and greater transparency in student performance.

Of the nation's 25 large urban schools, MPS continues to rank near the bottom of comparable urban districts. This includes being last in performance for Black students.

Fourth-grade reading scores were particularly devastating: Only nine percent of MPS fourth graders met NAEP proficiency this year.

Morgan added that nine out of every 10 classrooms in Milwaukee are filled with students performing below expected national standards.

Morgan believes the city and state can't thrive academically until city students receive an excellent education at a high-quality school of their choice.

The NAEP results echo what both City Forward Collective and the forum panel argued: Wisconsin's deliberate decision to water down academic standards has devastating consequences.

"This is not just about test scores," Morgan said. "This is about ensuring every child is given the education they deserve."

Despite criticism and the recent NAEP test scores, Underly said Wisconsin is on the right course.

She repeatedly defended her policies, particularly changes in testing and categorization, stressing they were meant to address the disconnect between what teachers experienced in the classroom and the terminology used to describe student success.

"Where I think a lot of the criticism is, or the confusion might be, when we change the grading scale to match the test, the bandwidths of where the minimum and the maximum for the different levels were lower than what they had been previously, the previous scale was aligned to an entirely different test," Underly explained.

"And so, for me, it seems like it is complicated, let's just be honest. But it also is really simple. I have the highest confidence in our teachers.

"I'm always going to do what's best for kids, and it's just really harmful to the conversation about public education to imply that we would do something such as lower standards.

"We did what's best for kids. So, now we can actually measure what kids are learning, so that we know where they need support and where they need additional challenges, so that we can grow, so that they can grow.

"And like I said, we're not where we are nationally speaking, with the highest graduation rates in our history (editor's note: for White students), and then also being sixth in the nation, if you're going to do things that are going to be harmful to kids' learning," she added.

(Editor's note: The Spectrum interview did not include questions about the status of Milwaukee education. Nor was Underly asked about how her policies have impacted the nation-leading gap between Black and White student achievement.)

Notice of Spring and Special Primary and Sample Ballots
February 18, 2025

OFFICE OF THE MILWAUKEE COUNTY ELECTION COMMISSION

TO THE VOTERS OF THE CITY OF MILWAUKEE:

Notice is hereby given of a spring primary and special primary election to be held in City of Milwaukee on February 18, 2025, at which the officers named below shall be chosen. The names of the candidates for each office, whose nominations have been certified to or filed in this office, are given under the title of the office, each in its proper column, together with the questions submitted to a vote, for a referendum, if any, in the sample ballot below.

Information to Voters

Upon entering the polling place and before being permitted to vote, a voter shall:

- state their name and address
- show an acceptable form of photo identification*
- sign the poll book**

*If a voter does not have acceptable photo identification, the voter may obtain a free photo ID for voting from the Division of Motor Vehicles.

**If the voter is unable to sign the poll book due to disability, a poll worker may write the word "exempt."

If a voter is not registered to vote, they may register to vote at the polling place serving their residence if the voter provides proof of residence.

Where ballots are distributed to voters, the initials of two inspectors must appear on the ballot.

Upon being permitted to vote, the voter shall enter a voting booth or go to a machine and cast their ballot. The vote should not be cast in any manner other than specified here. Sample ballots or other materials to assist the voter in marking their ballot may be taken into the booth and copied. The sample ballot shall not be shown to anyone so as to reveal how the ballot is marked.

A voter who is a parent or guardian may be accompanied by the voter's minor child or minor ward.

An election official may inform the voter of the proper manner for casting a vote, but the official may not advise or indicate a particular voting choice.

Assistance for Voting

A voter may select an individual to assist in casting their vote if the voter declares to the presiding official that they are unable to read, have difficulty reading, writing, or understanding English, or that due to disability are unable to cast their ballot. The selected individual rendering assistance may not be the voter's employer or an agent of that employer or an officer or agent of a labor organization which represents the voter.

Where Optical Scan Voting is Used

The voter shall fill in the oval next to the name of the candidate of their choice for each office for which he or she intends to vote. To vote for a person whose name does not appear on the ballot, the voter shall write in the name of the person of their choice in the space provided for a write-in vote and fill in the oval next to the write-in line. On referendum questions, the voter shall fill in the oval next to "yes" if in favor of the question, or the voter shall fill in the oval next to "no" if opposed to the question.

When using an electronic ballot marking device ("ExpressVote") to mark an optical scan ballot, the voter shall touch the screen or use the tactile pad to select the name of the candidate of their choice for each office for which they intend to vote. To vote for a person whose name does not appear on the ballot, the voter shall type in the name of the person of their choice in the space provided for a write-in vote. On referendum questions, the voter shall touch the screen or use the tactile pad to select "yes" if in favor of the question, or the voter shall touch the screen or use the tactile pad to select "no" if opposed to the question.

Spoiled Ballots

If a voter spoils an optical scan ballot, they shall return it to an election official who shall issue another ballot in its place, but not more than three ballots shall be issued to any one voter. If the ballot has not been initialed by two inspectors or is defective in any other way, the voter shall return it to the election official, who shall issue a proper ballot in its place.

After Voting the Ballot

After an official optical scan ballot is marked, it may be inserted in the security sleeve, so the marks do not show. The voter shall insert the ballot in the voting device and discard the sleeve or deliver the ballot to an inspector for deposit. If a central count system is used, the voter shall insert the ballot in the ballot box and discard the sleeve or deliver the ballot to an inspector for deposit. The voter shall leave the polling place promptly.

Included with this notice is a sample of the official ballot.

All wards will have the same contest on their ballots as shown on the sample ballot.

Wards 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 131, 132, 133, 134, 174, 175, 176, 178, 179, 332, and 354 will also have the following special aldermanic contest on their ballot:

- Aldersperson, District 3
- Vote for 1
- Ieshuh Griffin
- Nas Musa
- Daniel Bauman
- Alex Brower
- Frank Ferrante
- Josh Anderson
- Bryant Junco
- Alexander Kostal

SUMMONS (PUBLICATION) STATE OF WISCONSIN CIRCUIT COURT MILWAUKEE COUNTY DIVORCE - 40101 Case No. 24FA5729

In Re: The marriage of Petitioner: MAGGIE C TAYLOR and KIM CURTIS TAYLOR

THE STATE OF WISCONSIN, TO THE PERSON NAMED ABOVE AS RESPONDENT: You are notified that the petitioner named above has filed a Petition for divorce or legal separation against you.

You must respond with a written demand for a copy of the Petition within 40 days from the day after the first day of publication.

The demand must be sent or delivered to the court at: Clerk of Court, Milwaukee County Courthouse 901 N 9th St Milwaukee WI 53233 and to MAGGIE C TAYLOR 12248 WEST VIRGINIA CIRCLE, UNIT 7 FRANKLIN WI 53132

It is recommended, but not required that you have an attorney help or represent you.

If you do not demand a copy of the Petition within 40 days, the court may grant judgment against you for the award of money or other legal action requested in the Petition, and you may lose your right to object to anything that is or may be incorrect in the Petition.

A judgment may be enforced as provided by law. A judgment awarding money may become a lien against any real estate you own now or in the future and may also be enforced by garnishment or seizure of property.

You are further notified that if the parties to this action have minor children, violation of 948.31 Wis. Stats., (Interference with custody by parent or others) is punishable by fines and/or imprisonment:

If you and the petitioner have minor children, documents setting forth the percentage standard for child support established by the department under 49.22(9), Wis. Stats., and the factors that a court may consider for modification of that standard under 767.511 (1m). Wis Stats. are available upon your request from the Clerk of Court.

You are notified of the availability of information from the Circuit Court Commissioner as set forth in 767.105 Wis. Stats.

SUMMONS (PUBLICATION) STATE OF WISCONSIN CIRCUIT COURT MILWAUKEE COUNTY DIVORCE – 40101 Case No. 25FA000141

In Re: The marriage of Petitioner: MARIA C CASTRO CAMPOS and ERIC DIAZ MORALES

THE STATE OF WISCONSIN, TO THE PERSON NAMED ABOVE AS RESPONDENT: You are notified that the petitioner named above has filed a Petition for divorce or legal separation against you.

You must respond with a written demand for a copy of the Petition within 40 days from the day after the first day of publication.

The demand must be sent or delivered to the court at: Clerk of Court, Milwaukee County Courthouse 901 N 9th St Milwaukee WI 53233 and to MARIA C CASTRO CAMPOS 3241 S 43rd St Milwaukee WI 53219

It is recommended, but not required that you have an attorney help or represent you.

If you do not demand a copy of the Petition within 40 days, the court may grant judgment against you for the award of money or other legal action requested in the Petition, and you may lose your right to object to anything that is or may be incorrect in the Petition.

A judgment may be enforced as provided by law. A judgment awarding money may become a lien against any real estate you own now or in the future and may also be enforced by garnishment or seizure of property.

You are further notified that if the parties to this action have minor children, violation of 948.31 Wis. Stats., (Interference with custody by parent or others) is punishable by fines and/or imprisonment:

If you and the petitioner have minor children, documents setting forth the percentage standard for child support established by the department under 49.22(9), Wis. Stats., and the factors that a court may consider for modification of that standard under 767.511 (1m). Wis Stats. are available upon your request from the Clerk of Court.

You are notified of the availability of information from the Circuit Court Commissioner as set forth in 767.105 Wis. Stats.

767.105 Information from Circuit Court Commissioner.

(2) Upon the request of a party to an action affecting the family, including a revision of judgment or order under sec. 767.59 or 767.451:

(a) The Circuit Court Commissioner shall, with or without charge, provide the party with written information on the following, as appropriate to the action commenced:
1. The procedure for obtaining a judgment or order in the action.
2. The major issues usually addressed in such an action.
3. Community resources and family court counseling services available to assist the parties.
4. The procedure for setting, modifying, and enforcing child support awards, or modifying and enforcing legal custody or physical placement judgments or orders.
(b) The Circuit Court Commissioner shall provide a party, for inspection or purchase, with a copy of the statutory provisions in this chapter generally pertinent to the action.
