Should Native Americans be fearful of the bolder and new 2025 Trump Administration?

YES!

Be Afraid, Be Very Afraid!

It is no mystery that Trump, even in his last administration, harbored considerable envy and greed over the vastness of Native American lands and the vast resources that can be recovered from those lands.

And, he has already, this year, in his first few months in office, made some, on paper, incursions into those lands.

Yet this is but the tip of the iceberg.

Since the Media, Press, Pundits and self anointed Trump analysis and self-anointed Trump Whisperers always seem to be 3 steps behind the king, allow me to share the art of reasonable and clinical extrapolation.

I will request that you enjoin me in examining the most likely scenario to come and how it will play out. You have a much more insider's view than I and could offer more extrapolation-reference points and historical observations than I.

A human's nature is very predictable and changes very little throughout their lifetime barring some dramatic reformative event.

And, such change(s), even in minor increments are nearly impossible for those individuals whom are so insulated by approval and privilege that introspection pans out to be little more than ego reviewing ego ( without involving the superego: that which provides the ethical component of personality and the moral standards by which ego should, in best cases, operate).

In a few short years AI will bear this out.

Due to that lack of superego involvement Trump is even more easier to read than most. Hence, I am befuddled why the aforementioned groups are always so behind in predicting as well as interpreting his actions.

Okay, back to the issue at hand.

Sometime by mid year, Trump's bum rushing of executive orders and proclamation will simmer down to nil. He and his circus will be attending to other more urgent actions, patching up various debacles incurred in the preceding months and; more fully milking the racial/ethnic/criminality card ( low hanging fruit, quick victories, by which it is easy to manipulate the base as well as the public, in generating support for his policies).

So, you can expect very little,

Should Native Americans be fearful of the bolder and new 2025 Trump Administration?

in any, actual incursions into your tribal lands in the first 2 years of the administration. But (un)rest assured that the game plan for your lands is still being formatted by the middle-management branches of his administration. Resources are being collected, funding and behind door business deals and promises are being made to reap the benefits from those lands.

At this point, let's go back to algorithms and/or just the simple correlations between Trump's actions now and what may precipitate out of those actions in the future. This I present for all the naysayers ( mostly outside of your communities) that will try to lure you into the belief that such a huge usurping of your lands is highly unlikely.

Those living in the past, amazingly, refuse to acknowledge that due to the technological age ( which amazing is still in its tweens) the scarcity of rare and even common minerals and ores are at such a premium that undoubted wars will be fought over them ( if not already under the guise of political instability or some other ruse).

Just look at the present day extortion of mineral rights by the Trump Administration. Greenland - Ukraine -Canada ( and that's just for starter, who knows what other lands are in the playbook)

Trump himself, primarily just wants to build casinos, hotels and golf courses and extend his brand ( gotta keep that massive ego satisfied) but more influential power brokers and military/defense advisors placed those bugs in his ear. And, they know he is glutinous enough, without shame or respect to decorum to pursue as much, with full gusto.

Perhaps the tech elite already have his algo-profile

Now ask yourself this simple question. " If Trump & Company are willing to extort foreign lands, even allied countries, why would you even entertain the notion that he would not do it to you and your tribal lands, your sacred lands, your Homeland ?"

Outcome:

Most assuredly, he will compensate you with pennies on the dollar, better make that half-cents, from the profits derived from your lands. He & Co. will probably even throw in a few bells, whistles and a pittance of the modern day equivalent of $24 worth of beads and trinkets.

In return your usurped lands will be drilled and mined into oblivion. Your water tables will suffer from irreversible damage causing pervasive sickness before you discover the full extent of the damage.

Once they are done, the lands, not suitable for commercial development, will be returned to you to manage because clean-up will not be cost effective.

Once again, we are still in the early stages of a whole new era. Each new era cancels out things from the old era which are no longer seen as important enough.

You don't need to psychoanalyze Trump to see that he thinks of desert and other desolate lands as wastelands that offer no real value on the surface. In the techno future, a vast amount of the populace will feel the same.

In that world, if a landscape is not varied and scenic enough ( by western eyes and standards) then it is of no value. Therefore you won't be getting decades of grants and assistance from the EPA ( Hell ! There might not even be an EPA (Environment Protection Agency) in the next 10 years.

So, in the time between the upcoming lull and forthcoming action don't, rest on your laurels.

Do not put your faith in age old treaties.

Look ! The general populace of America can't even put their trust or faith in The Constitution during this assault of the second Trump Administration. And, with or without him, there will be GOP( now hijacked by Maga) control of the government for the next 12 years. After that a new form of Oligarchy-Capitalist Authoritarianism will be the form of the USA government and neither of the traditional parties will any longer exist. Your lands and peoples will fair much worse under that newer form of governance.

You need to engage attorneys, lobbyists, activists and political action right away to erect yet another barrier between your lands and the federal government.

“The truth is that a human is just a brief algorithm. Ten thousand, two hundred forty-seven lines. They are deceptively simple. Once you know them, their behavior is quite predictable.”
